Mind and Muscle.
Germanic Blood.
Advice to Ethel.
Pity Investing Widows.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

GENE TUNNEY, retired world champion, dined and praised by literary celebrities and respectable British nobility, says, "I don't know why you make such a fuss over me. What is boxing? The ability to co-ordinate mind and muscle at a critical moment. That is all."

That will send his ex-manager, Mr. Gibson, to the dictionary.

BOXING today is nothing. Twelve thousand years ago co-ordination of mind and muscle meant the difference between life and death.

Now what counts is co-ordination between mind and the mechanism of an "automatic" or an airplane.

GERMANIC blood possesses lasting energy. Von Hindenburg, President of the German Republic, past 80, goes hunting chamois in the high mountains. It is dangerous, difficult sport, even for young men, chasing those small goats.

PRESIDENT HAINISCH, of Austria, is running for a third term. He is 70 years old, and his mother, 89 YEARS OLD, is campaigning for him.

Her son doesn't want a third term, but she, president of the Austrian Feminist party, thinks it his duty to keep on working.

A FINE young American, Ethel Hertle, won Mr. Wrigley's 10-mile swim for women and his $10,000, defeating 53 other women, including the Channel marvel, Gertrude Ederle, in 5 hours, 34 minutes, 36 seconds.

A fine achievement, BUT those swimming young women are not using their energy as Providence and nature want it used.

Miss Ethel Hertle should stop long-distance swimming, find a worthy young man of the right type—thin body, a big head, good brain, kind heart, earnest, ambitious, sincere. Then Ethel Hertle should marry him, putting her mind on Nancy Hanks, whose championship was represented by Abraham Lincoln.

Wrigley should offer $100,000 for the best baby.

GOVERNMENT agents announced that A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, was swindled out of $70,000 in a land fraud.

"Other distinguished and intelligent men were their victims."

If lying letters and prospectuses can get $70,000 from the president of Harvard, what chance has a poor widow seeking to increase her small inheritance?

No woman should buy land unless she has seen it and has the approving opinions of three business men not interested in the sale. And this is not written by a real estate theorist.

AS HE travels about Wisconsin, looking for bigger trout, President Coolidge sees booming young Senator La Follette a sign reading: "Which shall rule, wealth or man; which shall lead, money or intellect; who shall fill public station, educated and patriotic freemen or the feudal servants of corporate capital?"

TO THE question, "Wealth or man?" the answer is BOTH.

The man with the wealth rules, as he has always done, partly because the other men want part of his wealth. Also because it requires intelligence or cunning to acquire wealth. Intelligence and cunning mean power.

Sad from the viewpoint of the earnest radical, doubtless, but history proves its truth.

Marc Antony, for instance, never would have bothered with Cleopatra, rather plain and getting old, if she hadn't had gold that Antony needed in his fight against Caesar.

BEARS had planned to raid the stock market today and tomorrow, taking advantage of brokers' absence for a long week-end holiday.

The buyers will be back on Tuesday, and the Bears will sympathize with their relatives that raided a hornets' nest and found only hornets, no honey.

This is NOT the time to sell America short. Wait a few years.

MR. FORD closes his automobile plant in Ireland because machines made there, sold in England, must pay duty to go from Ireland to Britain. He will manufacture Fordson tractors only in Ireland.

In Europe there is great demand for those tractors. I America Ford has stopped making his Fordson. There will be no more when the present supply is exhausted. He may manufacture a different tractor years hence—no more of the old kind.

PINCHOT OUT FOR HOOVER

GOING ON STUMP, HE SAYS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot announced today to a group of newspaper correspondents that he would support Herbert Hoover for the presidency.

"I'm for Hoover and against Smith," the former Governor declared. "That goes without saying. I'm dry and for the eighteenth amendment.

"Al Smith is wet and against it."

"I shall be on the stump later under the auspices of the Republican National Committee, probably in the West."

Pinchot made his announcement in the executive office in the Capitol, having come here to talk things over with Gov. Fisher.

The former Governor said he felt sure Hoover would carry Pennsylvania and there was little doubt that he would win the November election.

ONCE WAS MAD

During Pinchot's term of office he sponsored a giant power program which was rejected by the Pennsylvania legislature.

On the eve of one of his important announcements on the subject, Hoover, as Secretary of Commerce, issued a superpower program.

This aroused the ire of Pinchot, and it was generally understood that following that incident, he did not feel very cordial to Hoover.

His announcement today was his first public announcement of support for Hoover.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—Jack Sicco, 2, fell from the second floor of his home in Madison avenue to a concrete sidewalk and suffered a fractured skull. He is in Westmoreland Hospital.

Death Threat Sent Thaws; One Held

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, blackmailers have demanded $5,000 from Harry K. Thaw, it was discovered today with the arraignment in Central Police Court of William M. Beatty, 42, 14 Courtright street, North Side, found loitering near the spot in Highland Park where the letter demanded the money be placed.

The letter, printed in lead pencil, was sent to Mrs. Thaw's home, 1155 Beechwood boulevard. At the same time, a similar letter, apparently written by the same person, was sent to Albert Mansmann, wealthy East Liberty merchant, 716 North Negley avenue. Acting Inspector Thomas Malone declared that similar letters were sent to numerous other prominent Pittsburgh citizens.

H. Goldenson, 5433 Northumberland street, a South Side furniture dealer, gave City Detective Sol Fromme a letter identical in text and appearance to those received by Mrs. Thaw and Mr. Mansmann. He told the detective that he knew of no enemy who might have sent the letter in revenge.

The letters were signed "Black Hand Society" and demanded in "$5, $10, $20 and $50 bills be buried two feet from the sixth light pole, starting from the North Highland avenue entrance to Highland Park." The letter to Mrs. Thaw declared that failure to place the money at the designated spot by 5 p. m. August 25 would result in her son's life "being in danger."

The letter to Mr. Mansmann demanded in similar terms, that the money be placed the same distance from the fifth pole under the threat that his life "will be in danger."

SUSPECT HELD

Lieut. David Corbett, head of the Pittsburgh homicide squad, and Detective Jerry Deasy were set to watch the telephone poles after the threatening letters were received. They arrested Beatty. Detective

Axe Falls in Police Dept.

Rumors that Mayor Charles H. Kline had decided to dismiss three police magistrates died down to a mere whisper today. The report, which gained wide circulation yesterday, could not be confirmed today. Political leaders, however, branded the rumor as a "pipe dream."

A "shake-up" in the Bureau of Fire, however, was forecast today when it became known that Mayor Kline, Public Safety Director James M. Clark and other city department heads held a conference several days ago. The Bureau of Fire was the principal topic of discussion, it is said. It was reported that the Mayor already has prepared a list of those who are to figure in the upheaval.

The magistrates reported slated to go are John J. Verona, John J. Sweeney and George H. England. None of the magistrates knew anything of their reported dismissal. "It is all news to me," Magistrate Sweeney said. Magistrate England also denied any knowledge of his dismissal.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh announced today that Patrolman George Hook, reporting at Central Police Station, had been reappointed a lieutenant. Lieut. Elias Wentzel, the police head announced, was demoted to a patrolman. Wentzel reports at Frankstown Avenue Station. He is out of the city on vacation. Twelve patrolmen also were transferred today, in the monthly shift.

PIRATES POUND ALEX

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 31.—The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a double-header here this afternoon before a crowd of 12,000.

Ray Kremer and Grover Cleveland Alexander, who were on the mound when yesterday's game was called off at the end of the first inning because of rain, were back on the hill in the opening battle this afternoon.

The Cards scored a run in the first inning, but the Pirates overcame this lead when they scored three in their half of the inning.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

ST. LOUIS—Douthit flied to P. Waner. Frisch singled to center. Orsatti flied to Adams. Frisch stole second. Bottomley doubled to left, scoring Frisch. Hafey grounded to Traynor, who touched out Bottomley. One run, two hits.

PITTSBURGH—Adams singled to center. Frisch threw out L. Waner as Adams advanced. P. Waner grounded to Alexander who threw to High, boxing Adams. In the run down, High became excited, and after letting Adams pass him on the line he threw high to second and P. Waner was safe at that bag. Adams reached third. Grantham walked, filling the bases. Traynor singel to center, scoring Adams and P. Waner. Grantham going to third. Comorosky singled on the infield, scoring Grantham. Traynor taking second. Bartell lined to Orsatti. Traynor going to third on the sacrifice. Comorosky went out stealing, Smith to Frisch. Three runs, three hits, one error.

SECOND INNING

ST. LOUIS—High lined to Adams. Smith fouled to Hargreaves. Maranville popped to Traynor.

PITTSBURGH—Hargreaves singled to right. Kremer sacrificed, Smith to Bottomley. Adams flied to Douthit. Maranville threw out L. Waner. One hit.

THIRD INNING

ST. LOUIS—Traynor threw out Alexander. Douthit walked. Frisch walked. Orsatti flied to P. Waner, both runners advancing on the sacrifice. Bottomley fouled to Hargreaves.

PITTSBURGH—Maranville threw out P. Waner. Frisch fumbled Grantham's grounder and Grantham was safe at first. Grantham went to second on a passed ball. Frisch threw out Traynor as Grantham advanced. Comorosky singled to left, scoring Grantham. Bartell fouled to Bottomley. One run, one hit, one error.

FOURTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Hafey lined to Kremer. High lined to L. Waner. Bartell threw out Smith.

PITTSBURGH—Hargreaves fanned. With Kremer at bat Earl

DEMANDS $5,000

"Unless $5,000 is buried in Highland Park Harry K. Thaw's life will be in danger"—this was the essence of a threatening letter received by Thaw's mother, city detectives revealed today.

THE THREATENING LETTERS

A similar note was received by Albert Mansmann, wealthy East End merchant. Detectives say several other letters were sent to prominent citizens of wealth. The sleuths have arrested on suspect, William M. Beatty, 42, of 14 Courtright street, North Side.

ARRESTED IN PARK

Beatty (above) was arrested after he had been seen loitering at the designated spot in Highland Park for five days, detectives said when he was arraigned today.

THE HIDING PLACE

This shows the "sixth pole" in Highland Park off North Highland avenue which the letter designated as the approximate location of the money grave. Beatty, police said, was formerly employed as a policeman by a steel concern. The hearing in Morals Court was continued.

HELD AS M'CABE GANGSTERS

These five men posed as wealthy Pittsburgh garage owners in Washington, Pa., after they had succeeded in two Pittsburgh holdups, city detectives said today, with the arrest of the quintet. The authorities described the prisoners as remnants of the McCabe gang. They are suspects in the $3,500 holdup of the Pennsylvania Builders' Supply Company, West Liberty and Pioneer avenues, and the robbery of the Stewart Flour Company, West Carson street. Their names (left to right): Fred Perezio, John Sloan, Al Kitzmeyer, Harold Phillips, Ralph Nicksmayer.

Rescuers Find Lindy Plane

RUINS TELL TRAGEDY

In densely wooded mountains near Milford, Pa., today there is sprawled the wreckage (above) of a plane owned by Col. Lindbergh—wreckage that told in certain terms that its two occupants, Maysel Merrill, flying manager at Curtiss Field, New York, and Ed Ronne, Buffalo, had met death when the ship, in flames, plunged to earth. For two days no trace of the fliers was found. Then searching pilots discovered the wreckage and the worst fears of Merrill's widow and son (below) were realized.

ROBINSON LAYS FARM ILL FAULT TO HOOVER

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Formally notified of his selection by the Democratic party as its vice presidential candidate, Senator Joseph T. Robinson today turned his attention toward the campaign. He shortly will begin a speaking tour that will carry him deep into Southern territory.

Ready almost from the moment of his selection by the Houston convention for second place on the Democratic ticket, the Senator has awaited only the formal notification of his choice to raise in protest a voice against what he regards as the shortcomings of eight years of Republican control.

And last night in this little valley of the Ozarks official word of his notification, conveyed by Claude G. Bowers of New York, hardly had ceased to echo before the Senator was issuing a challenge to his political foes.

Farm relief, prohibition, merchant marine and political corruption — these are the issues he said upon which the Democratic party must fight out the campaign. And of the four, he cited the farm problem as perhaps the most outstanding.

The Senator without mincing words reviewed the eight years' record of Republicanism in Washington and then of that party's new chieftain said:

BLAMES HOOVER

"Mr. Hoover as the President's trusted adviser, is perhaps more directly responsible for the failure of farm relief legislation during the eight years referred to than any other single political leader. His present position touching legislation for agricultural relief marks no material advance. In his speech of acceptance it is asserted the most urgent economic problem in our nation today is agriculture. Differences of opinion as to both cases and remedies have retarded the completion of a constructive program for relief.

"This language expressly recognizes the persistence of the problem, and what is more significant the failure of his party in relief."

Then the senator added that although the equalization fee principle was not expressly approved the Democratic platform did recognize the "principle of distributing the cost of operations with the respect of surplus crops over the marketed units whose products are benefitted thereby," and that the time had come "when an economic adventure is justified in behalf of the millions" of farmers throughout the nation.

He passed from farm relief to prohibition.

"There has always been room in the Democratic party," he said, "for those who differ as to the best means of promoting temperance and of suppressing the traffic in alcoholic beverages.

"The convention recognized that the Democratic party is neither a prohibition nor an anti-prohibition organization, but if entrusted with power its duty would be enforce all laws."

Smith was hurt with a foul tip. The wound on his right side was of such a nature that the Pirate physician ordered him to the clubhouse at once. Jimmy Wilson relieved him. Frisch threw out Kremer. High threw out Adams.

FIFTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Maranville fouled to L. Waner. Alexander flied to Comorosky. Douthit lined to P. Waner.

PITTSBURGH—L. Waner beat out a slow roller to High. P. Waner hit a home run into the right field stands, scoring Brother Lloyd ahead of him. A big argument followed, stopping play. The Cardinals contended that a fan reached out over the rail and caught the ball. Umpire Hart, however, ruled it was a home run. Frisch threw out Grantham. Traynor went out, Alexander to Frisch to Bottomley. Comorosky singled to right. Bartell forced Comorosky, Maranville to Frisch. Two runs, three hits.

SIXTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Frisch singled off Kremer's glove. Orsatti fouled to Traynor. Bottomley grounded into a double play, Bartell to Adams to Grantham. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Reinhart went to the mound for the Cardinals. Hargreaves flied to Douthit. Frisch threw out Kremer. Adams singled to right. Adams stole second. Reinhart threw out L. Waner. One hit.

SEVENTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Hafey singled to right. High forced Hafey, Bartell to Adams. Wilson fouled to Traynor. Maranville forced High, Adams to Bartell. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Maranville threw out P. Waner. Grantham flied to Maranville. Traynor flied to Douthit.

EIGHTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Reinhart singled to center. Douthit doubled to right, Reinhart taking third. Frisch singled to right, scoring Reinhart, Douthit stopping at third. Orsatti fanned as Frisch stole second. Bottomley popped to Grantham. Douthit and Frisch scored on a wild pitch. Hafey hit a home run over the left field wall. Grimes replaced Kremer. Grimes threw out High. Four runs, four hits.

PITTSBURGH—Frisch threw out Comorosky. Bartell flied to Frisch. Frisch threw out Hargreaves.

NINTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Wilson fanned. Harper batted for Maranville. Bartell threw out Harper. Holm batted for Reinhart. Holm walked. Douthit flied to P. Waner.

PITTSBURGH—Unplayed.

DEATH THREAT SENT IN LETTER TO THAWS

Corbett said, after he was seen loitering near the spot over a period of five days.

He explained that this was the extent of his charges against the man.

Beatty was formerly employed as a policeman by a steel concern. His hearing was continued until tomorrow when an emergency call to a cutting scrape at 1201 Epiphany street necessitated the homicide squad leaving Morals Court.

During the hearing Acting Inspector Malone explained to Magistrate John Orie that the two letters given out were part of a series recently sent prominent Pittsburgh residents. Others are being investigated, he declared.

All the letters were printed in lead pencil to disguise the handwriting. Underneath each was a diagram showing the entrance to the park with the light poles marked with a square denoting the spot where the money was to be buried.

THE LETTERS

The letter to Mrs. Thaw read:

"Mrs. William Thaw,

"1165 Beechwood boulevard.

"We demand five thousand dollars from your son. This money must be in 10, 20 and 50 dollars bills and place according to our explanation in this letter not later than August 25th, 5 p. m., 1928. If he don't take care of this matter his life will be in dangeR.

"Tell hem to go to Highland park from N. Highland ave when he get the entrance. Count the light poles on the right and on the 6th pole place the money in tin box and bury six inches deep about 2 ft. from the light pole towards Washington blvd.

The letter to Mr. Mansmann read:

"A Mansmann,

"716 Negley avenue.

"We demand five thousand dollars from you this money must be in 10, 20 and 50 dollars bills and place according to our explanation in this letter not later than 5 p. m. August 25th 1928. If you don't take care of this matter your life will be in danger.

"Go to Highland park from N. Highland avenue when you get the entrance count the lights pols on your right untill you get the 5th pole place money in a tin box and bury six inches seep and 2 feet from the light pole towards Washington blvd.

The letter to Mrs. Thaw marked the second attempt within a year to blackmail members of this Pittsburgh family. On last November 15, Fred Wipf, 43, a native of Switzerland, was arrested after he had attacked a maid in the home of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., 5427 Forbes street, following a written demand upon Mrs. Thaw for $5,000. Wipf now is serving a sentence of from 2½ to 5 years in Western Penitentiary.

RAIDERS SEIZE GANG FOR 2 HOLDUPS

Came the dawn and the police to Chambers' Mill, near Washington, Pa., today to solve two recent Pittsburgh holdups with the arrest of five men who have recently entertained some of Washington county's elite in their pose as wealthy Pittsburgh garage owners.

Acting Lieut. Edward O'Rourke and a squad of city detectives raided a cottage at the Mills early today, and solved, they allege, the $3,500 robbery of the Pennsylvania Builders' Supply Company, West Liberty and Pioneer avenues, South Hills, and the robbery of the Jesse Stewart Flour Company, in West Carson street.

At the cottage the detectives found the five men sleeping off a debauch. In the bedrooms were found 14 revolvers and a quantity of ammunition and in the double garage two automobiles, which, police allege, were used in get-aways from the two holdups, conducted the same day last May.

Those arrested were Ralph Nickineger, 21, of 2719 Library road, Overbrook; Robert Kitzmger, 24, of 522 Baldwin street; John Sloan, 31, of 16 Furley street, and Fred Preziso, 20, of 1225 Epiphany street, all Pittsburgh, and Harold Phillips, 22, Altoona. According to detectives the five are the remnants of the old McCabe gang which for years terrorized the Strip district.

The men were trailed by the automobiles, recognized by witnesses to the two holdups. Police expect to fasten other crimes upon them. They were locked up at Central Police Station as suspicious persons and held incommunicado until their examination has been completed.

SLAYER FREED UNDER BOND

Joseph Reno, of Glassport, held on a charge of murder, was ordered released under $5,000 bail by Judge Elder W. Marshall today. Reno is alleged to have killed Felix Bucco, also of Glassport, in a fight July 11.

At the coroner's inquest Reno was exonerated, after witnesses testified he had acted in self defense. Reno later was rearrested on a warrant charging murder, and at a hearing before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan he was held for court. Raffela Bucco, a brother of the dead man, made information.

INDIANA (PA.) YOUTH ESCAPES MORGANZA

Police today are searching for Clyde Risinger, 17, of Indiana, Pa., who is said to have escaped from the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza, yesterday.

103 Lead For Smith In State

Herbert Hoover's substantial majority in the returns for the day reduces the slight lead of Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the straw vote poll being conducted in Pennsylvania by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The totals to date show the candidates to be running nearly even in the state, the Democratic candidate being in the lead by 103 votes in an aggregate of about 7,500 votes cast.

The ballots, sent by means of double postcards to registered and enrolled voters throughout the state, are being returned in increasingly large numbers as the canvass is extended to more counties. The daily returns this week jumped considerably over the previous daily returns.

Hoover had the advantage in the day's returns because of the larger number of ballots received from the suburban and rural districts. In this vote the Republican candidate's figures were better than 2-to-1 over Smith.

With a lull in the Philadelphia returns, which have favored the New York executive, the smaller number of ballots from that city gave him a bare lead over Hoover. The percentage of ballots from women was much below normal.

The latest totals in the Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, are: Smith 3,771, included 2,269 men and 1,502 women; Hoover, 3,668, including 2,218 men and 1,450 women.

The voters reporting voted in 1924, excepting those not voting in that year, as follows: Coolidge 4,726, 2,741 men and 1,985 women; Davis, 509, 342 men and 167 women; LaFollette 917.

100 POISONED AT PICNIC NEAR SCOTTDALE

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 31.—Approximately 100 persons today are suffering from ptomaine poisoning following a picnic feast of chicken sandwiches eaten at a family reunion held in a grove near here yesterday. Several victims are reported to be in a serious condition.

A joint outing was held by the Hixon, Stouffer, Booker and Stull families with 135 relatives from Pittsburgh, Fairchance, Uniontown, Connellsville, Scottdale and other Pennsylvania towns. At noon the picnickers lunched on chicken sandwiches liberally spread with mayonnaise dressing and quenched their thirst with deep draughts of water from an old farm spring. About 4 p. m. more than half the members of the party became ill and many fainted.

So sudden was the attack that the few who were not afflicted could not take care of the victims.

Dr. Earl Gilbert, of Scottdale, was called and found the patients suffering from ptomaine poisoning. He ordered the sick to be taken to nearby farmhouses. Jean Stouffer, 9; Mrs. Daniel Rightenour and Mrs. Harry Rightenour were said to be in a serious condition and were taken to their homes in Fairchance. Dr. Gilbert said the others probably would recover within a few days. An analysis will be made of the water in the spring.

JAIL GUARD'S WIFE SUES FOR $50,000 HEART BALM

Charging alienation of her husband's affection, Mrs. May E. Jessup, of Blawnox, brought suit today against Fannie L. Rubin, proprietor of a general merchandise store at Blawnox, for $50,000.

Charles C. Jessup, the husband, according to the wife, is a guard at the Allegheny County Workhouse at Blawnox. Mrs. Jessup charges in her suit that her husband has lived with the Rubin woman from time to time since April 11, 1926, and that the latter has done everything possible to break up the Jessup home.

The Jessups were married May 6, 1912. They have four children, the youngest 8 and the oldest, 15.

Swim Slump Approaches :-: City Pools Close Monday :-: Play to Capacity Crowds

CLOSES LABOR DAY

Labor Day is the closing date for the Bureau of Recreation pools in Homewood and Schenley Park and the largest crowds of swimmers of the year are enjoying the sport as the closing day nears. Here is a typical view of the Schenley pool with Andy Cutler (inset) doing a swan dive in much the same fashion as he would make a flying tackle in the Pitt Stadium.

THE INITIATION

At the Homewood basin, large and small seek relief from the intense heat. One of the popular pastimes is demonstrated here. Carman Stantas is about to be thrown into the "brink" by Jack Claney, Leonard Miller, Charles Ebeck.

AT HOMEWOOD

"Follow the leader" is a popular game in any kind of swimmin' hole and an interested audience looks on while Francis Butler leads off with a graceful dive off the board at the Homewood pool.

WOULD BE FASTEST

Tony Lemon, Mike Tomanio, Bob Hamilton and Clarence Tulet, four regular customers at the Homewood pool, have been striving for speed supremacy since the pool opened and they're bound to settle it before the water's drained Labor Day. Some day, mind you, all four of these athletes may swim the channel—the first quartet!

VARE QUIZ ENDS AS M'GOVERN WALKS OUT

A Little—Or Big—Rain :-: Means Less Than Nothing :-: To a Baby Doll Parade

DOLL STYLES

The doll parade planned for Warrington playground was called off on account of rain, but the doll convention held in the shelter house was a big success. Eleanor Horna, of 104 Pasadena street; Evelyn Rigg, of 123 Beltzhoover avenue, and Freda Limbach, of 18 Warrington avenue, are talking doll styles.

BLONDES VERSUS BRUNETTES

Little girls prefer all dolls, irrespective of size, was probably the weighty question settled by this group. They are, left to right, Stella Cavtiff, of 324 Curtain avenue; Olive Rimley, of 203 Kingsboro street; June Thomas, of 82 Pasadena street, and Ruth Schilling, of 8 Beltzhoover avenue, with big and little dolls. Both dolls and "mamas" were dressed in their best.

COSMOPOLITAN

Dolls of all nations were present at the doll convention. Here are the exhibits of Alma Heinmarsh, of 510 Industry street; Dorothy Marie Todd, of 235 Climax street, and Elizabeth Wertz, of 1 Beltzhoover avenue. The children took pains in dressing their charges.

TALENTED

Dolls can be just as talented as little girls in their own world these girls say. They are Laverne Moriarity, of 56 Pasadena street; Jean Remley, of 203 Kingsboro street, and Barbara Corpus, of 41 Beltzhoover avenue. They are very proud of their dancing dolls.

RULED OUT

Even though this entry had an ardent backer, it was really out of place the doll owners decided. Its owner is Iona Spronk, of 201 Haberman avenue. It wasn't a "dog day."

M'GOVERN STAMPEDES VARE QUIZ, WALKS OUT

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern threw a bombshell into the camp of attorneys for William B. Wilson and precipitately ended the Wilson-Vare 1926 senatorial contest here Thursday when he requested to be excused as a witness.

Commissioner McGovern's request came after Senator C. K. Waterman, in charge of the hearing, repeatedly had blocked efforts to introduce what he termed "hearsay" evidence.

"I would like to contribute to the Senate and to the people of Pittsburgh," the Commissioner said, "what knowledge I have concerning election frauds, but judging from the procedure here I cannot do that. Therefore I would like to be withdrawn from the stand."

Previously McGovern had declared that "20,000" tax receipts had been issued by "recognized county officials" in 1925 and 1926 "with fraudulent intent and purpose," but admitted that statement was made on information given him. Senator Waterman demanded that the commissioner speak "not from hearsay but from positive knowledge."

McGovern then was excused from the stand. Investigation will reopen in Washington, Wednesday, with Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, as one of the witnesses.

STREET IMPROVEMENT ENDS IN DAMAGE SUIT

James E. Smithyan, of Virginia avenue, Nineteenth Ward, filed suit today against the city, claiming $5,000 damages for alleged injuries done his home through improvement of the street. The house, he states, was left seven feet above the original level when Virginia avenue was graded, and he has had to lower the sewer and water lines. Viewers assessed $28 benefits against Smithyan for the improvement.

YOUTHFUL PAIR HELD IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

Accused of having held up eight persons Wednesday night in a Campbells Run road gasoline station, George Wilson, 18, of Glendale, and John Kozy, 18, of 32 Wagner street, Carnegie, were held for court last night by Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen of Carnegie. No loot was obtained as the holdup was interrupted by motorists.

Dead Flier Only Man to Razz Lindbergh

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Mazel M. (Merrie) Merrill, who lost his life in an airplane crash near Milford, Pa., was disclosed today as the only man who had "bawled out" Col. Charles A. Lindbergh since the Lone Eagle's trans-Atlantic flight.

Col. Lindbergh took off "down wind" over a crowd last April when he flew to Quebec with serum for Floyd Bennett, late pilot for Com. Byrd. When Lindbergh returned, Merrill, who was manager of Curtiss Field, reprimanded him for "setting a bad example for other fliers."

RETURNS HOME, FINDS MAN THERE; STABS HIM

When Dominick Sudano, 34, of 1201 Epiphany street, came home unexpectedly today to find Louis Albert, 35, a giant boarder, there, according to police, he pulled out a dirk and started to cut Albert down to his size. Police arrived to find Albert suffering from severe gashes in the face and head. They are looking for Sudano.

AUTO SPILL KILLS WOMAN, INJURES 6

When their automobile skidded and overturned on a highway near New Carlisle, O., late yesterday, Mrs. Catherine Hagerty, 38, of 309 Martin avenue, Mt. Lebanon, was killed, and her husband, four children and a niece were injured. The party was returning from Terre Haute, Ind. The husband and children were not injured seriously.

The children are Mary, 8; Gertrude, 7; Thomas, 2 months, and Joseph, 4, and the niece, Ella Brennan, 15. They were taken to the Miami Valley Hospital at Dayton, O., and treated for cuts and bruises. All except Thomas were released.

M'KEESPORTERS HURT

R. F. Hunt, 30, and his wife, Erma, 28, of 1009 Franklin street, McKeesport, were cut and bruised when an automobile driven by Elmer Reichhold, 30, of 234 Sycamore street, police say, struck them at Liberty avenue and Ferry street last night. The couple were going to their automobile, parked nearby, when injured. Both were treated at the Allegheny General Hospital and then went home.

Four Negroes were severely bruised when a machine driven by Frank Schindler, 44, of 2153 Falcon way, struck them on the Liberty Bridge near the Boulevard of the Allies. The injured, taken to Mercy Hospital, are Charles Best, 28, of 1604 Colwell street; W. J. Torpley, 39, and Columbus Cox, 28, both of 34 Ruck way, and Bryan Garrett, 48, of Miller street. The victims were repairing Best's machine which had figured in an accident shortly before, when Schindler's car struck them.

Sam Bonn, 23, of 2841 Center avenue, a taxi driver, was arrested when his cab struck John P. Feeney, 45, of 230 Fourth street, Braddock, at Fourth avenue and Smithfield street, last night. At the Mercy Hospital it was said that Feeney was suffering from a fractured left ankle and contusions.

$65,000 WILLED TO FAMILY

Watson E. Provost, lumber dealer of Overbrook, disposing of his $65,000 estate, left the homestead to his wife, Margaret L. Provost, for life and his business and bank stock to his son, Charles M. Provost. The wife has a life interest in the rest of the estate. At her death the homestead goes to their daughter, Mrs. Hazel Ann Snyder, and the estate is to be divided between the son and daughter. Mrs. Provost and her son are named executors.

1,000-PLATE DINNER TO TEX GUINAN SQUASHED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Cancellation of a 1,000 plate dinner in honor of Texas Guinan, New York night club hostess, who has returned to Hollywood to re-enter motion pictures, was announced here today as the result of a disapproving gesture by officials of the breakfast club where it was to have been held.

Permission to use the breakfast club's pavilion, scene of many gatherings in honor of distinguished visitors, was withdrawn by club officials "because of lack of official approval and because of unfavorable comment."

The action was taken after Mayor George Cryer refused to take part in welcoming Miss Guinan and had declined to attend the dinner.

An attempt to notify Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, of the cancellation was made late last night. He was en route to Los Angeles to attend the dinner when it was called off.

Weather Conditions.

The low, which caused the thundershowers yesterday afternoon and evening, has moved eastward out the St. Lawrence valley and out of our field of observation, and the high, yesterday over North Dakota, has advanced southeastward and is central this morning over Iowa, 30.34 inches at Charles City. The rainfall area included the lower lakes, the central valleys and the Gulf states. Rainfall in excess of one inch occurred at Nashville, Little Rock and Parkersburg.

The temperatures have fallen throughout the central valleys and eastward to the coast. No frosts have occurred with this high, and the temperatures range from the 40s in the northern plains to the upper 50s in the Southern Plains states.

River Conditions.

Rainfall over the watersheds was light over the Allegheny, moderate over the Monongahela, in the past 24 hours. The Allegheny is about stationary, while the Monongahela is rising slightly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.2 ft. at Dam No. 2, 8.2, and at Dam No. 6, 7.6 feet. The dams are up, and but little change in the rivers is anticipated.

HEAT WAVE BREAKS; 2 DIE HERE

The second death from the heat wave, broken by last night's showers, was reported to the coroner early today. A victim of heat prostration, John Reilly, 55, of 628 Halton street, Carnegie, died late last night in the St. Joseph's Hospital. Three other persons prostrated by the heat are in the McKeesport Hospital.

The hot weather also is blamed for the death of Boleslau Swiklinski, 22, of 2731 Penn avenue, who fell through a skylight of his home yesterday. Complaining of the weather the man had gone to the roof for relief. A short time later he was heard to crash through the skylight. He was removed to the West Penn Hospital where death resulted from a fractured skull.

The victims in the McKeesport Hospital are Glenn Heath, 30, of 808½ Fifth avenue; Hunter Buckner, 46, of 1116 Market street and Andrew Kustia, 45, of 2525 Palmgreen avenue, all of McKeesport. They were reported improved this morning.

The showers of late yesterday and last night were accompanied by an electrical storm. Lightning struck the home of M. J. Wuerl, at 504 Kirk avenue, Carrick. Fire that followed was quickly extinguished and the loss was $50.

Two-Story Fall To End in Court, Not Cemetery

Instead of finding Joe Kucan, 30, of Garrison, Ind., dead from a two-story tumble out of a rooming house window at 542 Second avenue late last night, police picked him up apparently unhurt.

They conveyed him to Mercy Hospital where a physician said there was nothing wrong with him, except moonshine. He was detained at the hospital and upon his release will face a disorderly conduct charge, police say.

BROKEN NECK KILLS DIVER

Alfred Boll, 20, of 2815 McDowell street, died in the Suburban General Hospital, Bellevue, today, of a broken neck. He suffered the injury last Tuesday when, on diving into Lowry's Run at Emsworth, his head struck a stone.

Traffic Congestion Fades :-: Allies Boulevard Lengthened :-: Ready In November

GREAT VIADUCT OVERTOPS SOHO

With the speeding of work on the Boulevard of the Allies, city engineers promise that early in November will see traffic moving unimpeded along that great artery from Oakland to the downtown section. Work was started last February and the steel viaduct across Forbes street (above) and over the roofs of Soho is nearing completion. The structural work is in charge of John D. Stevenson, of the Bureau of Bridges. Tom M. Reed, of the Bureau of Engineering, is directing the excavations and concrete construction.

WIDE ROADWAY, SWEEPING CURVES

With a width of 40 feet, the boulevard affords ample room for four lines of traffic. The portion embraced in the improvement is 3,300 feet long and the grade is of low percentage. In its constructions are used 2,500,000 pounds of structural steel, 575,000 pounds of steel re-inforcement, 12,000 cubic yards of concrete and 11,000 lineal feet of concrete piles. This picture shows the overhead stretch paralleling Forbes street which will connect the Forbes street spans.

OVERHEAD ON FORBES STREET

At Ophelia street the boulevard bridges Forbes street (above) and continues on in the direction of Schenley Park while two 20-foot ramps connect with the street for traffic moving to and from the heart of the Oakland district. The approximate cost of the work is $1,250,000. The work has been carried through on schedule time and when completed the boulevard is expected to afford opportunity for solving some major traffic problems.

DAPPER KILLING PROBERS SHADOW BOOTLEGGER

Copperhead Bite Puts Farmhand In Hospital

Suffering from the bite of a copperhead snake, John Viscosci, farmhand on the Alizas Cepulis farm, near Stoops Ferry, was reported to be recovering today in the Sewickley Valley Hospital.

He was bitten Wednesday when he knelt on the snake while at work on the farm.

AUTO DETECTIVES ADDED TO CRIME INVESTIGATORS

Believing they have a live clue pointing toward the slayer of Dr. Harry Dapper, Carrick physician, murdered 10 days ago, city automobile detectives have entered the case. The squad of men under Lieut. Edward O'Rourke was detailed to hunt down the murderer yesterday. Members refused to divulge the nature of the promising clue.

The detectives last night went to Mt. Oliver and Knoxville to investigate the actions of an alleged bootlegger. It was said at the time that this same man has been shadowed for several days. The city sleuths are also trying to locate a youth given a workhouse sentence less than a year ago for stealing the dead physician's medicine case from his automobile parked near St. Joseph's Hospital.

Information that might bring about the recovery of the automobile in which the slayer drove away was turned over to state police at Greensburg yesterday. The troopers will have to do some investigating in that vicinity, according to county detectives.

WOMAN SEEKS ALIMONY

John Maue, 512 Dunloe street, tinner and retired policeman is asked for alimony in a petition filed in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Hilda Maue.

Maue recently filed a libel in divorce against Mrs. Maue, of 5014 Dearborn street, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment. The respondent claims that her husband earns $15 a day when he warks at his trade and receives $70 a month pension from the city. Mrs. Maue is represented by Attorney George H. Quaill and William McDowell represents the libellent.

CHILDREN'S DONATIONS SWELL MILK, ICE FUND

Each one of today's gifts to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund is from a group of children and represents the proceeds of a benefit given to increase the fund.

Jeanne, Betty and Babs Kalich and Annette Robin, of Shady avenue, sold candy from door to door and collected money to the amount of $8.33. Raymond Hepner and Earl Pearlman were leaders in a South Aiken avenue affair that netted $2, while out Brookline way there was one of the very nicest birthday celebrations anybody ever heard of. One little friend of the fund, who had helped the babies last year, unselfishly decided on a benefit instead of the customary birthday party with gifts for herself. So she and her playmates gave a lawn fete, building their own stands and planning and carrying out the affair, with only the assistance of an interested father, who decorated the yard with lights. Irene Collins Ward, Jack, Lois and Betty Regan were these little philanthropists who have raised $18.27.

Another band of children who enjoyed helping the fund so much last year that they "repeated" this year includes Virginia Carr, Esther Heh, Elizabeth and Margaret Nossek, Grace and Colette Boeggeman, Alice, Evelyn and Ruth Hagedorn, Mary Louise Beamer, Dorothy Reynolds and Lucy Matchett, whose gift is $18.50, which they made at a Manning street lawn fete. From a sale of delicious fudge and some very artistic paper dolls, both of which they themselves made, Mary Viola Wilcox, Jean Cochran and Dorothy Hamilton, of Ivy street, realized $2.50, which is the last gift on today's list.

CONTRACTORS SUE COUNTY FOR EXTRAS

Suit has been filed by the H. D. Patterson Company, contractors, against Allegheny County for $49,955 the amount claimed to be due for improvemetns to Bower Hill road extension.

A dispute arose over the payment of a bill of $55,000 for extras and while the county commissioners ordered the payment of $62,215 on the orignal contract they voted to submit the payment of extras to arbitration. The arbitrators awarded $51,000 but the county commissioners refused to pay, charging the arbitrators exceeded their authority.

CONNIE OUT OF COLLIER DAUGHTER-IN-LAW ROLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. William Collier, who is just "crazy" about Constance Talmadge, seems doomed to disappointment so far as having her for a daughter-in-law is concerned. That is, unless Connie is holding something back. Connie, on the way to Europe from Hollywood, was asked if she and Buster Collier were to wed. "How can I talk about marriage plans when I haven't any?" she said. "My only plans are picture plans taking me away from America for a whole year."

PAIR OF ROBBERS TAKE VICTIM BY SURPRISE

Pounced upon by two Negroes while walking in Center avenue at Crawford street, Nelson J. Miles, of 2535 Center avenue, was robbed of $1.75 last night.

N. ENGLAND SPLIT

THEATER HEAD ENTERTAINS

Frank Buhler, general manager of the Stanley-Davis-Clark theaters in Pittsburgh, inaugurated his management with a dinner last night in the William Penn Hotel. Theatrical and newspapermen were in attendance, including Earl Crabb, Stanley official; Harold B. Dygert, director of publicity; Oliver J. Keller, Ray Sprigle, Charles Gilmore, William A. White, Fred Kury and Havey J. Boyle.

Mr. Buhler returns to Pittsburgh, after having started out here in the theatrical profession, and after a long service in the eastern part of the country.

Affairs of the movie world, and the vaudeville stage, were discussed at the dinner in an informal way.

Mr. Buhler in his new capacity in Pittsburgh assumes charge of the three Stanley theaters in Pittsburgh, the Stanley, the Davis and the Grand, and 27 other theaters in Western Pennsylvania.

NORTH TIER G. O. P.'S, POLL SHOWS, SOUTH IN DOUBT

By CHARLES N. WHEELER,
Noted Political Analyst.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The Boston American boys, who conducting the straw vote for the Hearst publications in the New England states, send word that the north half of the territory made famous by Mrs. Heaman's poem—"Stern and Rock-bound Coast," etc.—is safely fenced in by Hoover generals.

But in the south half, in the territory of the Tea Party patriots and throughout the Nutmeg Commonwealth and "Little Rhody," it is a battle royal.

The 14 electoral votes of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are conceded to Mr. Hoover by the Democratic leaders of that section, and the poll supports their decision.

Rhode Island's five electoral votes are in doubt at this writing, owing to the pronounced wet sentiment that has developed there since Gov. Smith landed on the Eighteenth amendment with a Babe Ruth clout.

BAY STATERS FIGHT

In Massachusetts the battle rages furiously with party lines wiped out, old friendships shattered, and the whole state seething over the promise of the Democratic spokesmen to turn out the "bureaucratic meddlers" at Washington.

Connecticut also is getting all het up, with the foam-plumed Smith adherents making big headway in the cities and along the coast line.

The battle in Maine is not over the state's decision on the presidential issue, but over the size of the Republican pluralities that may be rolled up at the election on September 10.

In the old days the slogan was, "As Maine goes, so goes the nation," and for many presidential elections this early September vote of the northeast corner of the Union was a fair barometer of what the rest of the country was likely to do.

But that was in the days of tariff discussions and long before Mr. Volstead and the World War precipitated new issues that do not, for the most part, make Maine so much of a barometer as formerly.

HOOVER GETS MAINE

However, a largely increased Republican plurality in Maine one week from next Tuesday will be seized upon by the G. O. P. chiefs for its moral worth. For that reason the Republicans will put their best licks in the effort to show that Tammany is not an alluring picture in that corner of the country.

Factional differences among the Democratic leaders of Maine and some serious defections from the Jeffersonian ranks may result in Maine rolling up an unusually large lead for Mr. Hoover.

In both Vermont and New Hampshire, Gov. Smith is going to get a larger vote than was given John W. Davis four years ago, the poll indicates, but the gains do not point to a serious situation for the Republicans.

But down Cape Cod way, all along Long Island Sound, the greatest confusion and uncertainty prevail, and as the campaign warms up, the uncertainty increases.

SOUTH FOR SMITH

Connecticut, for example, shows Smith in the lead in this morning's totals with 2,263 to 2,035 for Mr. Hoover.

In Massachucetts, Smith is way out in front, with a total of 12,576 to 6,378 for Mr. Hoover. From the first day the poll started, Mr. Smith has been in the lead in the Plymouth Rock country, but the poll so far is largely from Boston, where the Smith partisans seem to be smothering the opposition.

Mr. Raskob has definitely placed Massachusetts in the Smith column, a declaration that is echoed by Senator David I. Walsh and other Bay State leaders.

Impartial observers class the commonwealth as fighting ground, with the tide of battle likely to be in doubt until the last grand charge is made on the eve of the balloting.

These 18 electoral votes would aid Gov. Smith a great deal in the final reckoning if he could sweep the "Solid South," the border states and New York state.

Connecticut's seven votes and Rhode Island's five also would be worth while if the final result is going to be close.

For the present the figures indicate that all three of these states should be kept in the doubtful column.

CHANGE IT MADE WAS WONDERFUL

This Lady States; Gives Ten Herbs Credit for Ending Her Health Troubles.

"My condition has been so vastly improved, since taking Ten Herbs, that neighbors remark about the wonderful change in my appearance," was the statement of Mrs. J. Sidney Wheaton, Route 6, Mt. Oliver,

MRS. J. SIDNEY WHEATON

Pa., (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine.

"I had been in such bad condition on account of stomach, liver and kidney trouble and rheumatism, that for the last two years I was not able to do my housework," Mrs. Wheaton continued. "There were such pains across the small of my back that if I stooped over I would cry with misery. I was not able to walk up a flight of stairs—had to use my hands and knees. This weakened condition seemed to weaken my memory. The circulation of my blood was so poor that my hands would become numb. My stomach was so badly disordered that I had to be careful what I ate. Food would ferment, bringing on gas and bloating.

"A neighbor suggested that I try Ten Herbs, as she had got good results from its use. I took her advice and noticed an improvement after the first bottle. I can enjoy my meals now, and there is no more gas or bloating. My liver and kidneys seem to be working fine. The pains are gone from across my back. I am able to do my housework, and can go up and downstairs without any discomfort. My hands do not get numb any more, because of greatly improved blood circulation. My memory also is better than it has been for a long time. I heartily endorse Ten Herbs to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

DIVERSIFIED PROGRAMS GO ON AIR TONIGHT

A CONCERT orchestra, under the direction of Cesare Sodero; Emily Wooley, soprano; Marilla Kohary, violinist; Irving Marston Jackson, baritone, and the Choristers will be the featured artists in the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau program, which will go on the air at 10 o'clock tonight. "Je Dis Que Rien M'Epouvante," to be sung by Miss Wooley, is the lovely aria for Micaela in Act 3 of Bizet's "Carmen." Another operatic selection in the same period is the familiar "Song to the Evening Star" from Wagner's "Tannhauser," the song of Wolfram on the mountainside. This is to be sung by Irving Marston Jackson, with orchestral accompaniment. Marilla Kohary, pianist, will play the first movement from Mendelssohn's "Concerto in G Minor."

A revue staged for the pleasure of their king and his court by the Wrigly Spearmen will be heard through the NBC System, at 9:00 o'clock, KDKA will be in th hook up. A male quartet will present "Open Up Your Window" and "Song of the Moon," while a comedy duo will sing two novelties, "Everything We Like We Like Alike" and "Ho, Ho, Hogan!" Vocal and instrumental soloists also will be heard during this program, and several orchestral selections. These last will include "La Fete de Seville," a bolero by Tavan; Kotlar's "Monte Cristo Waltz," "Serenade Badine," by Gabriel-Marie, and "Dancing Bonnie," by Hahn.

A spirited arrangement of Roy Bargy's "Ironfinger" for two pianos and orchestra, and four numbers from Rudolf Friml's "Chinese Suite," as well as selections by Victor Herbert and Richard Dyro, and gems from the operetta "San Toy" by Jones, promise to uphold the high musical standard of the Cities Service hour to be broadcast over WCAE, at 8:00 o'clock. Sascha Fildman, concertmeister of the Cities Service orchestra, has chosen two selections of rare beauty for his violin solos, a waltz of Brahms and "Gypsy Dance," by Nachez. The Cities Service Cevaliers will do a medley of request numbers—the negro spirituel, "Good News; Chariot's Comin'," and the old favorite, "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," in which they will be accompanied by the Cities Service orchestra.

"Men of Harlech," an old Welsh marching tune, will be sung by the Stromberg-Carlsons during the program to be broadcast through the NBC system, including KDKA, at 10 o'clock. "Oft in the Stilly Night," by Moore; Ethelbert Nevin's "The Rosary," and "Will You Love Me in December as You Did in May?" a popular song of other years by Mayor Walker, also will be sung. The vocalists will be Milton J. Cross, first tenor; Maurice Tyler, second tenor; Walter Preston, baritone, and Marley R. Sherris, bass. Keith McLeod, vibraphone soloist, will present "Ben Bolt," and Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, will play "Water Boy," a Negro air arranged by himself and Mr. McLeod.

Air Broadcasting Employs Many Workers

According to recent estimates there are probably a million persons throughout the United States engaged in the varied activities of radio broadcasting from some 553 stations. This would be an average of one broadcast worker for every 12 receiving sets in the country.

Affiliated with the several largest stations is an average staff of some 4,000, including artists, musicians, arrangers, technicians and radio engineers.

Engaged in the broadcasting of the Palmolive hour from WEAF are about 150 people, including such headline favorites as Olive Palmer, the Revelers, Paul Oliver, Phillips Carlin and Director Gustave Haenschen. In all, about 5,500 voices a month face the microphone in the stations of the National Broadcasting Company. Among them are ministers, lecturers and prominent men and women, as well as regular entertainers who make up the leading programs.

Besides these nationally known stars the broadcasting company itself maintains a staff of "understudies" or emergency entertainers ready to step into the breach if anything should prevent the appearance of a scheduled artist. But among radio artists there exists the same tradition which obtains on the stage. No matter what happens, the "show" must go on.

BOOSTERS FOR HOOVER HOLD RALLY TONIGHT

A meeting of the Hoover-Curtis Boosters Committee, an organization which claims 2,000 members, will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock at headquarters, fifth floor of the Union Bank building. C. C. Hamilton temporary chairman, is enrolling more members. The committee is working in conjunction with the regular Republican organization. Hamilton has requested voters to send in the names of 10 other voters for membership.

RADIO CHAIN OPERATES 22 HOURS EACH WEEK

Expansion in all departments of the Columbia Broadcasting System will become effective Sunday, at which time a new key station will head the network for the first time, and two stations will join the chain.

WABC, owned and operated by the Atlantic Broadcasting Corporation, will assume the duties of key station for the Columbia System for all broadcasts on Sunday, Tuesdany and Thursday evenings, and on Sunday afternoons. WOR, the original key station, will continue to officiate as key on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The two additional stations joining the network at this time are WKH, of Cleveland, O., and WICC, of Bridgeport, Conn. These two stations will be joined on the chain whenever the Columbia Broadcasting System is on the air.

Not only does the expansion policy affect the number of broadcasting stations included in the hook-up, but also the number of hours on the air occupied with Columbia programs. Approximately one year ago the Columbia Broadcasting System came into existence with a total of 16 associated stations and a total of 10 occupied hours on the air weekly. Beginning on Sunday afternoon, the operations schedule of the Columbia System calls for 22 stations in the chain and a total of 22 occupied hours weekly.

An attractive program has been scheduled for presentation by the Columbia System Sunday. Beginning at 3 o'clock, the symphonic hour, presented by the United Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Howard Barlow, will feature Mozart's symphony, and works by Weber, Schubert and Willson. The Cathedral hour, following at 4 o'clock, will present complete religious musical service, in which large choir, orchestra and soloists will take part. Sunday night at 9 o'clock the Come-to-the-Fair period will contain a group of lively carnival pieces by the orchestra and soloists. At 9:30 Majestic's Two Black Crows, Moran and Mack, will be the headliners on a program, following which, at 10 o'clock, the United Military Band will play its regular Sunday evening concert.

The Pittsburgh station, WJAS, is in the Columbia System.

PIERRE DE BACKER IN KDKA PROGRAM

The guest soloist during the Automatic Agitators program to be broadcast by KDKA tonight at 10:30 o'clock will be Pierre DeBacker, playing the viola. Mr. DeBacker is concertmeister of the KDKA Little Symphony Orchestra. Recently he returned from a visit to Europe, where he was permitted to study methods in vogue there. The selections that the Agitators quartet will sing are: "Beautiful," "Old Folks Song Medley," "My Own United States," "If You Can't Find the Girl," "In Absence" and "When You're Lonely."

LOUIS REESE, TENOR, TO SING OVER WCAE

Louis Reese, tenor with Helen Ray Reese, accompanist, will present a miscellaneous program of songs from WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock. Two afternoon programs over WCAE will be the 30 minutes of popular piano, as played by Marie Moss at 3:35, and Bob Cheney and his eight piece orchestra, who will be on the air at 5 o'clock.

"Sh-sh-sh I'm right on the job. Don't weaken. Pry yourself loose from that vamp. Quick, or I'll have to sock you!"

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE THIS JOB?

—she had to play nurse-maid to a love-sick youth!

MY JOB!
1—I must never leave you alone with her.
2—I must prevent her from using her wiles on you.
3—I must pretend to be your fiancee.
4—I must pay no attention to what you say.
5—If you weaken I must sock you in the jaw.

The great Broadway stage hit at last on the screen!

From Coast to Coast the word has gone forth:

"Don't miss Marion Davies' new picture. It's a riot."

You'll judge for yourself, but we believe you'll agree with all the enthusiastic advance reports that merry Marion has made the most screamingly funny picture of her career.

And that's saying plenty!

Start Laughing Monday!

A Fashion-Thrift Offering—

Sheer Wool Dresses

$16.50

Because the new wool frocks are almost as light in weight as silks (some even lighter), and because they are so extremely fashionable and so altogether practical, many a woman will start the new season with one or two of these dresses.

They are of wool georgette in solid navy, light and bright colors; of cherilaine with irregular stripes of white on navy, black or green; of novelty flecked crepes; and of novelty, sheer plaids in bright shades or in navy combined with white or gray.

Women's and misses' sizes.

Horne Hats

Felts, Velours and Velvets

$5.00

The hats of felts and velours are of unusually fine texture and light of weight. In many instances they are cleverly combined with velvet or with stove-pipe silk.

The velvet hats are distinguished by rich, lustrous quality, supple and light.

Included are new poke shapes, piquant off-the-face types, caressing little turbans, beret effects, and classic tailored models.

...Horne's, Fourth Floor...

"Marmotte"

The Hosiery Shade for September

A perfectly delightful, indefinable tone that will blend with all the rich Harvest browns that are so good for fall. It's rather a deep rose-beige, more beige than rose, if you know what we mean, and with just a hint of grayness, besides . . . an exotic shade . . . a uniquely new shade . . . and a perfectly charming shade! Exclusive with Horne's.

In chiffon silk hose with piquot top and hemstitched garter-run. Sizes 8½ to 10½. Price, $2.00.

...Horne's, Main Floor...

Junior Misses' Satin Frocks

$16.75

Miss 13-to-17 is not to be denied the vogue of satin just because she is young and ingenuous, for the Junior-Misses' Section brings out frocks specifically designed to harmonize with her age and her simplicity of type.

One-piece and two-piece models, and a chic little ensemble with sleeveless frock and tie-on jacket. In brown shades, dark green and wine tones, and black.

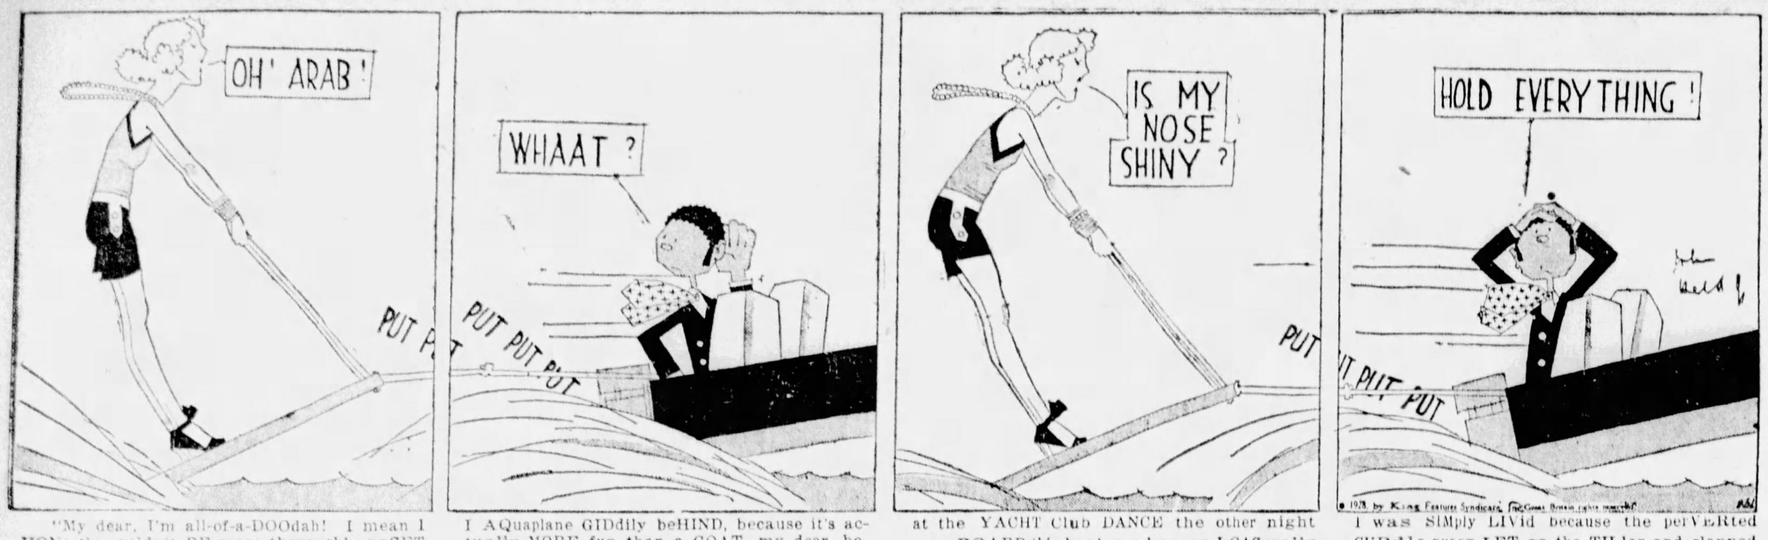
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl —:— Story by Lloyd Mayer —:— By John Held, Jr.



"My dear, I'm all-of-a-DOOdah! I mean I HONestly couldn't BE more thoroughly upSET at this point, my dear, because it's ACtually no USE trying to dePEND on ARab for ANYthing, my dear! I mean he's so darn temp'aMENtal or something, he's not the LEAST bit of a HELP in an eMERgency, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, you know I'm letting him run the CUTEcraft while I AQuaplane GIDdily beHIND, because it's actually MORE fun than a GOAT, my dear, because I mean you get the most SCINtillating senSAtion of FLYing, sort of, but I mean the other MORNing when we were ROARing BLITHEly aLONG I saw this SNAPpy-looking YACHT about to PASS CLOSE to us, my dear, and I SUDdenly realized that TERribly attractive YOUTH who gave me a treMENdous RUSH at the YACHT Club DANCE the other night was aBOARD this boat, my dear, so I CASurally hailed ARab and ASKED him if my NOSE was shiny at this point, my dear, I mean, after ALL, what could be more NATural? But I give you my WORD it was HOURS before I could make him underSTAND and when he DID he NEARly coILAPSED, my dear! GOSH, I was SIMply LIVid because the perVERted CUDdle-puppy LET go the TILler and clapped BOTH hands to his HEAD in a GESture of desPAIR, shouting WILDly, 'HOLD EV'rything!' Have you ever in your LIFE heard of anything so UTterly CRYPtic, my dear? GOSH, I'm SIMply LIVid about the situation at this point, my dear—I mean I ACtually AM!"

SHERLOCK CHAUFFEUR BREAKS UP ELOPEMENT

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Benjamin Zager seems to have a great future as a detective. On his last day as taxi driver before joining the police force he did some heartbreaking detecting. A young couple chartered his cab. He deduced they were eloping, and he drove them to a policeman. They were sent home to obtain their parents' consent.

PRESS AGENT STINGS POLICE TO BOOST PLAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Some press agent is to be punished if Police Capt. Edward Lennon has his way. Police were summoned to "a terrible riot" in a theater. They found a small audience listening to "Elmer Gantry." There was complete absence of turmoil. A man had risen from his seat and denounced the play as blasphemous—for pay.

Kitchen Specialty Ignored, Fine Follows Fuss

Accused of having chased John Arn, 35, chef at the Penn Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, with a large knife, Rodger Condetti, 40, a cook at the hotel, was fined $25 last night by Burgess J. R. Langley on a disorderly conduct charge.

The two men quarreled Wednesday night when Arn is said to have ordered Condetti's wife, Amelia, 29, also a hotel employe, to help him prepare a chicken for cooking. Mrs. Condetti resented it, maintaining that she had been hired to clean vegetables.

BUGS BAER Says

THE talking pictures have not yet reached that round point where the final analysis is pay-dividends on the preliminary survey.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The synchronization of voice and gesture does not yet dovetail with the medley of sound and gyrations.

At present it seems to be converting good actors into bad ventriloquist's dolls.

There must be something wrong when Lionel Barrymore walks in a door, shakes hands and says, "Goodbye."

A reel later he walks out the door and says, "Hello."

We saw one picture where the heroine kisses the hero in the first reel to an orchestration of shrieks, whistles, rending of steel and a boiler explosion.

Fifteen minutes later there is a head-on collision of locomotives, and the only sound is the gentle pop of lips meeting lips.

The talkies are going to get better, of course. At present the flappers are all talking bass and the villains are singing like Harz Mountain canaries.

And the close-ups of the kisses do not sound exactly right. No heroine's bridgework is so loose that osculation should sound like Chinese fireworks.

At present the talkies are crying when they laugh and chortling when they weep. This is due to mechanical difficulties which will soon be overcome and we guarantee that when you next hear the clatter of coconut shells a hoss will not walk in wearing rubber boots.

There is a fine line of demarcation between the bloop of a champagne bottle and the blump of an overworked gasoline stove departing through the ceiling.

But expert engineers are working on the problem and soon the talkies will entertain you with all the homelike noises that you could get from undesirable neighbors.

It takes some ability to set crossword puzzles to music even in an industry where cross words are not puzzles.

The first step is to have absolute quiet in the scenario department.

Which means Hollywood will have to call out the police and fire departments to take that megaphone away from Cecil De Mille.

We predict a great future for the talkies. But it will not be so good for the directors who must be face to face in order to do their long distance telephoning.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL EVENTS

Social Activity Revived at Resorts

A WEEK or so ago we hailed any news of fall events with avidity. And now we listen with a desperate eagerness to all the news and chatter about what folks are at such and such a resort, and who entertained them. Now that the summer resort season of 1928 has just several weeks more to live, we prize it more, it seems.

During the last week there has been a revival, almost, of social activity, haven't you noticed? And instead of the usual small informal events there have been some large gatherings.

Up at Southampton tonight there will be a carnival at the Southampton Beach Club for the benefit of the Southampton Fresh Air Home for Crippled Children. This carnival will vie with any three-ring circus. Among the many things to divert one there will be a sale of pedigreed dogs and a copy of an antique Chinese dog kennel! No matter how antique we like our furniture—and dog kennels—when it comes to fashions the future styles are none too new. So the society folks have decided to have a fashion show at their carnival to suggest just what well-dressed society women will be wearing tomorrow. And Mrs. G. Faber Downey, Jr., of Sewickley, will be in charge of this fashion display. Young women of the colony, gowned in the latest creations of autumn, will parade. Mrs. Downey has arranged, about the club during the tea hour.

DOWN at White Sulphur Springs balls have been growing in popularity. On Tuesday night over 500 members of the colony attended the Old White Ball at the Greenbrier. The ball celebrated the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the resort.

Of course one of the most delightful things inspired by large dances are the dinners given just before the dance begins. One of the largest "pre-ball" dinners was given by the A. Fleming Fells, who are guests, I believe I've mentioned before, of the Walter G. Mortlands at "Roadsend."

EVER so many folks are now returning from Europe. The Samuel Harden Churches and Mrs. Catherine Church Jones and Mrs. James Francis Burke sailed this week on the Aquitania from Cherbourg, news has reached us.

* * *

MRS. MORGAN B. SCHILLER is back from Europe, did you hear? She arrived in New York on Tuesday. And Mrs. William B. Schiller and Morgan B. Schiller met her there. They all stopped at the Ambassador while in Gotham.

MRS. WILLIAM D. HAMILTON is spending a few weeks at the Marlborough-Blenheim, Atlantic City, news has reached us.

DOWN in Sewickley enough little folks are back from summer camps for a party! And Mrs. James W. Oliver, of "Hill Crest," Sewickley Heights, will entertain tomorrow at the first children's party of the fall in honor of her small daughter, Peggy Oliver, who will be 8 years.

* * *

MRS. VAN LEAR PERRY SCHRIVER and Mrs. Tom Mercer Girdler, both of Sewickley, went to Cumberland, Md., to attend the reception given there last night by Gov. Ritchie. Mrs. Girdler will be back tomorrow, I believe, and Mrs. Schriver will go on to Washton for a few days.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. VERNON R. COVELL, of South avenue, Wilkinsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Cordelia Covell, and Walter D. Hemker, of State College, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hemker, of Great Bend, Kan. Miss Covell is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, and Mr. Hemker of Kansas State College.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Ann Hunter, of Sheraden, to J. W. Pierce, also of Sheraden, which took place August 23. They will reside in Homewood.

MISS ROSE MARY BRENNEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Brennen, of Malvern road, Avalon, and D. J. Sullivan, of Washington, were married Tuesday in the Church of St. Aloysius, Washington.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. SAUL LAVINE and children will return September 1 from their cottage "Willow Crest" on Lake Erie, where they have been spending the summr.

* * *

MRS. F. B. SHEAFFER, chairman of the woman's entertainment committee, will be in charge of the bridge party to be held at the South Hills Country Club Labor Day from 2 to 4 o'clock. She will be assisted by Mrs. John S. Oursler, Mrs. C. Lawrence Cook, Mrs. L. J. Hollman, Mrs. B. B. Byers, Mrs. G. L. Gearing, Mrs. F. B. Saunders, Mrs. W. A. Baker and Mrs S. J. Snee. A dinner dance in the evening will complete the program of entertainment for the day.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE N. CRAWFORD, of Morrowfield avenue, announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Dorothy Crawford, to Charles E. Bickham, of Wilkinsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Bickham, of St. Francisville, La. The wedding will take place in September.

For the Holiday and Every Other Day . . .
Men's Shirts of Non-Shrinkable White Broadcloth

$1.85

These superior quality, McCreery-tailored white broadcloth shirts are bywords of shirt value in Pittsburgh sports and business circles. For besides being especially fine garments, adjudged by any standard, they free their wearers from the inconvenience and discomfort of shrinkage—the former bugaboo of broadcloth shirts.

Full cut—full length box pleat—six ocean pearl buttons—collar attached or neckband style.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Professor's Daughter

By Eduora Ramsay Richardson

AT the sorority house we explained Peggy as an atavism. When we first knew her, of course, we were quite at a loss to understand how Professor and Mrs. Rainey, with their angular leanness, their protruding, spectacled eyes, and their passionate devotion to nothing save learning, could have brought forth Peggy, whose face was as round as a kitten's, whose eyes were the soft blue of gentians and whose little tip-tilted nose seemed to sniff at the mere mention of laboratories. Then, after we had studied biology, we understood that a frivolous ancestress had doubtless danced her way into the heart of a staid great-grandfather of Peggys' and then proceeded to project her charming self into the girl we loved.

It seemed strange that Professor and Mrs. Rainey should permit their only daughter to live at the sorority house instead of in their dank old mausoleum at the edge of the campus, but then Peggy's wants were irresistible. So, away from the academic atmosphere of her childhood, Peggy tripped for four years along a primrose path, the flowery borders of which we were sure her mother had never glimpsed, managing the while to use just enough brain to skim her through her classes.

One afternoon during the spring of Peggy's senior year the young biology professor, who came now and then to the house to talk learnedly to the only grind the sorority possessed, shocked us all by announcing that Miss Rainey was really Phi Beta Kappa material if she would only apply herself. It happened that just at the moment when Dr. Van Landingham made his unfortunate remark Peggy flashed into the room with Dick Maynard following in the cone of light behind her.

"You're quite mistaken, Professor Van," Peggy laughed. "I've scarcely enough brains to make my degree. It wouldn't surprise me if you yourself pitched me in June."

Poor Professor Van Landingham blushed to the roots of his fair hair.

"Your last paper was streaked with brilliance," he managed to say, but there was little professorial dignity in his bearing.

"My God!" groaned Dick Maynard who feared a brain spark more than he did a spurt from the nose of a pistol.

"If you won't believe him, Dickie," Peggy soothed, "I'll see that it never happens again."

"What a pity!" gulped the professor.

Peggy flung open the phonograph and slammed on a record.

"Let's dance and stop talking nonsense," she advised, hurling herself into Dick Maynard's arms.

That night Peggy, in pink satin pajamas, with pink mules hanging from her toes, sat on the edge of her bed, strangely intent upon talking over the trifling incident with me. I flattered myself that I knew Peggy better than anyone else did, for hadn't I shared a room and confidences with her for almost three years?

"I wish that silly prof hadn't said what he did," she lamented. "He's almost scared Dick Maynard away."

"As though Dick doesn't know you well enough to be sure you haven't brains enough to hurt him!" I yawned.

"But Dick never has been quite easy in his mind about me," Peggy continued with a seriousness I didn't see how the situation warranted. "He's dropping out this year to step into business with his father—without enough credits to fill his gold cigaret case. I'm graduating, you see, and besides, he can't forget all the gray matter Mother and Dad have stored up."

"So long as it's stored up and not handed down to you, why worry?" I philosophized. "Are you in love with Dick?"

Peggy frowned first and then laughed.

"Silly," she replied. "Of course I am. Haven't I been poor all my life and hasn't Dick good looks and good manners and motor cars and millions?"

The next day I had a frank talk with Dr. Van Landingham, in which I tried to make him understand Peggy's problem. I decided right away that for a professor he was almost human. Through the horn-rimmed badge of his profession, his gray eyes were clear and comprehending.

"Of course, if Miss Rainey must have that mechanically wound up tailor's dummy, I'll be more careful," he said when I had finished my little speech.

A few days later I heard from Peggy that everything was going smoothly.

"I guess Prof. Van thinks I'm dumb enough now," she said. "He talked to me in the lab today as though I were a kindergarten pupil. Dick was waiting at the door. He was amused, but I did think the old crab put himself to a lot of trouble to be disagreeable."

"Well, don't flunk your biology," I warned.

After that Peggy worked with a concentration that sat strangely on her frivolous shoulders, a concentration upon classes and Dick. So it happened that just before commencement she came into the room, wearing a two-carat diamond and holding a paper that bore on its back a blue penciled 100.

"An engagement ring and a perfect biology exam," she exulted. "Will you be my maid of honor?"

"It'll be a long day but a happy one," I said, hugging her.

That biology paper was only typical of the rest of the exams. Peggy scored near a hundred on everything. As the psychology professors would say, it is strange to what new levels of achievement happiness can lift one.

The night after Peggy's graduation Dick Maynard threw an announcement party. His mother father, Peggy's pedantic parents, a chum of Dick's and I made up the party. We went to the ritziest hotel in the city where the brilliance of everything made my head swim — the flowers, the champagne, the exotic food I had read of but never expected to taste. Mrs. Rainey, in her little home-made frock, looked like a foil for the dazzling Mrs. Maynard, and the mousy professor seemed utterly squelched by the successful rotundity of the millionaire.

"Mother and Dad ought to have on exhibit the six-foot shelf of books they've written," Peggy blurted out, apropos of nothing.

Not one sensible word was said the entire evening. Finally Peggy suddenly remembered that she had to telephone and excused herself. As she slipped past me she stuck the menu card in my hand on which there were some scribbled lines. I managed to conceal it under the table and at the same time to give several surreptitious peeks. This is what Peggy had written:

"I'm not an atavism, and I can't go on being the projection of my father's inhibitions and my mother's suppressed desires, especially now that I see that the poor parents didn't know what they wanted. So I'm going to marry John Van Landingham, tonight. Keep the party going long enough for me to do the deed, and then tell them."

While the Maynards chattered and the Raineys looked like sheep dumb at the slaughter, my mind began to clear. Peggy was really a student like her mother and father. Her pretty face and their paradoxical ambitions for her had come near being her undoing. Why hadn't I seen before that she was in love with the fair-haired young biology professor and the life he represented? That atavism theory had simply thrown me off the track.

CAN WALK FIVE MILES A DAY

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Providence, R. I.—"It is two years ago since I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my nerves and other bad feelings and it has been helping me all this time so that I am able to do all my work now and walk about five miles a day besides. I am still taking your medicine and feel like a young woman although I am about 45 years old now. I feel well and happy and if anyone wishes to write to me about your medicines I will be glad to answer."—Mrs. J. Tagliamonti, 11 Pequot Street, Providence, R. I.

And hear it! This is the new Victor Electrola Radiola, Model Seventy-six. The Electrola, which reproduces and amplifies record-music electrically, combined with the all-electric Radiola 18 in a beautiful cabinet of Early English design, finished in walnut veneers.

Both Electrola and Radiola operate from the light-socket. No batteries required. A twist of the wrist changes from radio to records instantly, or back again. Radiola has single-dial tuning and there is a convenient little electric light over the station-selector.

Cabinet has stationary top, with two doors opening in front. Four handsome record-albums have backs of differently colored leather. All in all, a beautiful instrument—both artistically and musically. Be sure to see it and hear it at your Victor dealer's. List price, $425, complete with tubes. Other Victor models, $35 to $1550, list price. See them all some day—soon!

DOGS' VICTIM SUES FOR $25,000 DAMAGES

August Muesser alleges he was attacked May 12 by several ferocious dogs at the home of Jacques Blum, 1310 Squirrel Hill avenue and wants $25,000 damages.

In Common Pleas Court, Muesser relates that he rode to the defendant's home in a taxicab and that Blum requested him to carry in a couple of suitcases.

Muesser avers that before he got into the house he was attacked by the dogs, hurled against the taxicab, cut and bruised.

His injuries, he says, confined him to a hospital. Attorney Ben Paul Brasley represents the plaintiff.

BOYS and GIRLS' FLOOR - THE THIRD

"School days, school days!" And every girl and young fellow knows how very important it is to have new togs for that first day. That's a rule that's held good from grandmother's time on down to ours. Here are the togs —they'll captivate the youngsters and please the parents!

Boys' School Suits 12.50

Serviceable and good looking — these knicker suits. They are styled in the English manner . . . 2-button coats, double-breasted vests and knickers pleated at the waist. Of American and foreign woolens in the popular Fall browns, greys, and navy. The extra pair of knickers makes them outstanding in value and particularly desirable for school wear. Sizes 7 to 16.

THIRD FLOOR

Girls' Silk Dresses 8.95 to 19.75

Silk frocks are an important part of the school girl's wardrobe. The one sketched is generously smocked at the neck, wrists, and waist. One- and two-piece models have bits of hand embroidery, faggoting, pipings or collars of Irish lace. And for the chubby little girl—the straight tailored frock. All styles offer a wide range of colors. Sizes 6 to 14.

THIRD FLOOR

Little Girls' Millinery for School

School hats are snug felts or rich velours. Velvet tams top jaunty costumes. Browns, maroon, green, tan, blue and navy are the colors—all favored by Fall. Bits of leather and little gold buckles are distinctive trims. Priced from 3.95 to $5.

Imported Models for very best are velvet, velvet-and-felt or felt-and-silk. 8.95 to 14.95.

THIRD FLOOR

Children's School Hosiery

Children's long stockings, rayon and mercerized in derby rib style. The colors—sandalwood, bran, peach, champagne and French nude. Special at 50c.

Boys' and girls' ¾ and ⅞-length hose. Cotton and mercerized, with stripes and checks. Trim little roll cuffs. 50c and 55c.

Boys' ⅞-length stockings—cotton and mercerized. Jacquard patterns and small diamond checks on backgrounds of the popular Fall tans and greys. Priced $1.

Misses' full-fashioned silk hose—4-inch lisle garter tops — in white, flesh and shades of tan. Priced 1.50.

AN ENLIVENED TOWN

The Elks of Pennsylvania were homeward bound today from Conneaut Lake, where, for the last three days, they have been enlivening things. The "enliveners" included this musical band from the Meadville lodge, the host.

THE BEAUTY

And while we're on the subject, Catherine Ginser didn't depress anybody. Catherine, representing McKeesport lodge, won the state beauty contest!

FAIR LISTENER

Mrs. G. A. Gibson, Monongahela, listens to a monologue on Elkdom by F. J. Schrader, of Pittsburgh, past state president.

AMONG THE NOTABLES

These three Elks good and true helped to make the convention more than merely interesting. And Elk convention standards, you know, are high. They're Maj. E. Lowry Humes, the prominent Democrat; Dr. John H. Martin, Greenville, and former Gov. John K. Tener, prominent Republican.

SHE ALSO WINS

Myrtle Pratt, McKeesport, insured that town's beauty honors by being chosen alternate—a deserved honor, we'll say.

GIRL'S LAST DRINK IS POISON

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 31.—Miss Marie Pratt, 20, well-known Uniontown girl, arose from her chair in a local cafe at 2:30 a. m. today and, flourishing a bottle taken from her vanity case, cried: "Who wants a drink?"

Several young men in the place accepted her offer of a treat.

"Then you may have what I leave," she answered, as she lifted the bottle to her lips and drank. It contained carbolic acid. She passed the bottle to the man nearest her and collapsed. At the Uniontown Hospital it was stated that she could not recover.

PITTSBURGHER HELD IN W. VA. GIRL CASE

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 31.—(A.P.)—Charles McCray, who told authorities he had a wife and a young son in Pittsburgh, was arrested here yesterday, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl, of Benwood, W. Va. The girl was returned this week from Columbus, O., where she was found in a rooming house after she had written her parents that she had entered a "death sleep." McCray was jailed in default of $1,000 bond.

Scarfpin Stolen As Owner Naps In Chair

While John J. Carney, 716 Carson street, slept in a chair on the second floor of his home last night, a thief tiptoed into the house and stole a $90 diamond stickpin from his tie. He discovered the theft when he awakened.

Fox Chase Lures Aleppo Farmer To Death

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—The lure of the fox chase led to the death of Melvin Courtright, 37, Aleppo township farmer.

Awakened at midnight by barking dogs chasing a fox, Courtright took his own hound in an auto and started out to join the pack. A short distance from his home his auto went over an embankment.

COLLEGE YOUTH DROWNS IN OHIO RIVER SWIM

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 31.—(A.P.)—Marlin McClure, 22, of Huntington, Marshall College junior, was drowned in the Ohio River near Swann's Creek yesterday while swimming to a motorboat in which he and three companions were traveling from Parkersburg to Huntington. With McClure were John and David Francis, sons of James D. Francis, vice president of the Island Creek Coal Company, and John Clark, an employe.

FIGHT FIRE 8 HOURS

A smoldering fire, which burned for eight hours in the store room of the National Electric and Fixture Company, 915 Western avenue, caused damage estimated by firemen of $35,000.

For more than an hour after the fire started at 10 o'clock last night, firemen were baffled in their efforts to enter the building on account of blinding smoke. The fire started among some insulated wire and the burning insulation filled the building with dense fumes.

Capt. John Miller, of Engine Company No. 47, was overcome by smoke and taken to Mercy Hospital.

Enos Palman, 1256 Stedman street, while holding a lantern for firemen who were battering down a door, was struck on the head with the blunt edge of an ax. His condition is not serious.

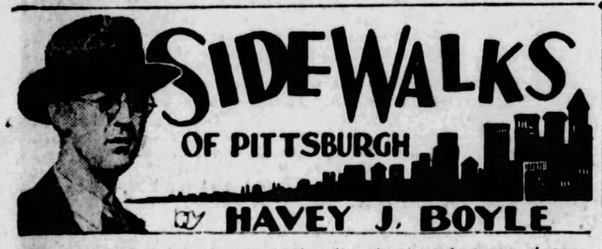
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE



THIS is the time of year on the city streets when you observe many innocent red noses. As a general proposition a red nose is damaging evidence that no amount of explaining can wipe away, but at this time of the year a red nose does not suggest alcoholics, but sorry victims of hay fever.

Of all ailing citizens, the man with the hay fever gets the slightest consideration from well people. He can never quite convince non-sufferers that there is not something humorous about hay fever. The suffering, to be sure, is intense, but the victims seldom get farther than first base in trying to score in the sympathy column.

HERE is a note from a victim, who between sniffles, managed to write:

"My Dear Sir: You don't seem to realize that walking the sidewalks of Pittsburgh are several thousand hay fever victims. That's an item not to be sneezed at. I am sorry you are not one of us, for, if you were, you might establish a free clinic in Carrick or some other high spot in the county. There is a certain spirit of fraternity among hay fever patients, with good-natured bickerings back and forth as to whether golden rod pollen will produce more sneezes per mile than rag weed. The annual sneeze marathon generally goes on until the arrival of the first frost. Naturally, we patients expected relief after reading Senator Curtis' acceptance speech. Well, anyway, here's hoping you have it next year." Signed: C. J. D.

Personally, we believe it would be a lot of fun. Outside of a heart ailment, which would cause physicians to say: "You will live to a ripe old age, but you must do no work of any kind," we believe hay fever is about the choicest ailment on the physicians' list.

THE man was about 60. He wore an old model of faded straw hat, light trousers and a dark, tattered coat. He was making a house-to-house canvass, spreading the good word about evolution. He had prepared a brochure to confute the suppositions of the Darwinians and he was convinced that he had the correct dope.

"Are you interested in evolution?" he asked at first. "Only mildly," we replied, and, sensing a touch of one sort or another, we added: "And not at all if it is going to cost any money."

He went on then in a rambling way to expound what apparently he tediously had written in the pamphlet he extended. At the moment we are only slightly concerned whether we had come from an ape, as Mr. Darwin timidly surmised, or from a fish as Mr. Wells has intimated, or from Adam and Eve.

"YOU, then, are not interested," the old gentleman asked, almost accusingly. "No." "Well, then are you interested in getting an old man something to eat?" Of course, that was more important than the old argument about evolution. True, the old gentleman had descended from the high ground of academic discussion to a very material ground, but we felt we were going to get that pamphlet, anyway. So we gave a couple of pennies to buy food and in return he gave us his book on evolution.

* * *

Anyone desiring to know all about evolution will be accommodated by sending in a certified check for 25 cents. It is a masterpiece of hodge-podge, pounded out by a scientist who was hungry.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, heir to the British throne, was born at White Lodge, Richmond, in midsummer of 1894. Guilty of much mischief during his childhood days, he was often punished. When he grew older he was sent to Osborne Naval College. Investiture of his title took place at Carnarvon Castle, in Wales. After leaving Osborne he was sent to Oxford to begin his university education. During the war he became a captain in the army and went to France, but was prohibited from fighting.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

EDWARD P.

By WALTER and LEONARD TOWNSEND

CHAPTER IX.

THE Prince will always regard the period he spent as a young officer tramping the muddy roads of France in the Great War as the happiest days of his life, although he is an enthusiastic anti-war advocate.

PRINCE OF WALES

From 1914 to 1918 he was able to achieve the great longing that has been in his heart for many years to drop for a time the "Prince" and become an ordinary officer of His Majesty's Army.

While the Prince treasured his incognito during his time in France those at home in England eagerly awaited news of H. R. H.'s adventures as a soldier.

Dissatisfaction was felt in England that the people were not given adequate details of the Prince's life at the front.

But one of the reasons why there was such a paucity of information with regard to the Prince's activities in the war area was because few people over there were in position to say what exactly did happen to the Prince from day to day. Sometimes he was to be seen bumping his grey car along the shattered streets of some shell-blown village; another he would be glimpsed asking his way of a guard in the devastated area; then again he would be stood at ease, chatting in a trench to the delight and admiration of the fortunate men beside him.

Once when the Queen was talking to a Belgian refugee at the Victoria Station Canteen, London, she was surprised to hear that her companion's son had recently seen H. R. H. walking swiftly down a certain road in a village in Flanders, alone. Suddenly an enemy Taub came roaring overhead and began to bomb the neighboring houses. Pulling his steel helmet more securely on his head, the Prince ran for shelter, which was the cellar of the village postoffice.

Here he found several wounded men lying awaiting the ambulance to take them to a base hospital. They were being attended by some French nuns. When the ambulance and doctors eventually arrived they found the Prince in his shirt sleeves holding bandages and hot water for the ministering nuns.

Was Liaison Officer

It would have been very difficult for a reader of newspapers to gauge definitely what were the exact duties of the Prince at the front. But we have Earl French's own statement to throw light upon this question: "He acted," runs the official dispatch, "on my staff as liaison officer. Reports from the general officers commanding corps and divisions to which he has been attached, agree in commending the thoroughness with which he performs any work entrusted to him. H. R. H. did duty for a time in the trenches with a battalion to which he belongs."

The "Journal Officiel" of Paris also published the following extract from an army order:

"H. R. H. Edward, Prince of Wales, staff-captain in the Fourteenth British Army Corps from July to October, 1917, in the region of Bossinghees Langemarck, by ensuring liaisons up to the first lines under bombardment, contributed very effectively to the close co-operation in the battle of the Fourteenth British Army Corps and the First French Army."

That he was in touch with the rank and file is illustrated by a letter which a corporal in the Tenth Hussars (the Prince of Wales Own), writes:

"The Prince of Wales has given a cup to be run for a cross-country race, dismounted. He is a thorough sport!"

In 1916 the King of England visited the front to make a tour of the trenches and inspect the troops.

The Prince of Wales was called upon to act as cicerone to his royal father, and to conduct him through the various trenches which he knew so well, and explain the various points which claimed the King's attention.

The Prince held out strongly, during his war service, against any attempt at differentiation between himself and his fellow-fighters. But he was not always successful. Nevertheless he could truly remark after the war that he had "roughed it with the others."

"I must do my duty and put up with the hardships just like the other fellows!" So said the Prince once when suggestions were made by Earl Haig with a view to securing his personal comfort.

When a party of soldiers, including the Prince of Wales, halted at a village one night after a strenuous day's marching, it was discovered that there would be a shortage of billets. Some of the officers would have to "camp" as well as they could under the circumstances. When what billets that were available had been apportioned to the Senior Officers it was discovered with dismay that the Prince was without a bed!

Several of the officers at once offered to resign their billets in order that their Royal colleague might rest in comfort. But the Prince refused all such offers. "I have been unlucky, but I can manage quite well on the floor," and throwing his knapsack down for a pillow he laid down on the floor.

The Prince did not spend the whole of his time on the French front, although for service rendered he earned the Croix de Guerre. In 1916, he accompanied the Mediterranean Expedition Force as a Staff Captain and saw active service on the Egyptian front, later paying a visit to the Italian front.

The Prince did not have an easy time during his stay in Egypt. On frequent occasions he had to ride across long stretches of sun-scorched desert and experienced all the tortures of a "tropical thirst." After his early escapades in France he saw that it was not exactly "playing the game" to be trying constantly to avoid his "wardens" (as he humorously called those grey-haired staff officers who were detailed to "watch" his movements). Within certain limits he kept away from the danger zones. The Prince did not wish any officer to get into trouble through his running into danger and risking his life.

During an inspection of an Australian Infantry Brigade under Sir Archibald Murray, there were wild scenes of enthusiasm. When the parade dismissed the soldiers rushed with true Australian democracy to shake the Royal Officer by the hand.

The sun-tanned, horny-handed men of the Colonies were not unduly impressed at first with the news that the Prince of Wales was serving with H. M. Forces. It needed actual contact with H. R. H. to bring out demonstrations of their latent loyalty.

When they had seen him genuinely "roughing it" they were totally unreserved in their appreciation of the Prince's modesty and unostentatious pluck. "He's a dinkum 'Aussie'" they voted him. In his turn, the Prince paid a significant tribute to the service of the overseas troops by entering Valenciennes on Armistice Day, attached to the Canadian Corps.

Starts Relief Fund

While at the Headquarters of the Egyptian Expeditionary Force, the Prince spent a great deal of his time with the troops and made many friends amongst the British, Australian and New Zealand Divisions. While in Egypt he paid a short visit to Cairo and stayed at the British Residency and took luncheon with the Sultan.

The Great War had not waged for two days before the Prince of Wales realized that terrible hardships would have to be faced by the relatives of those "killed in action." In order to alleviate in some way their distress, the Prince inaugurated a fund bearing his name and published an appeal.

The response was immediate and by the end of 1917, the total donations had reached over six million pounds. Early in 1916, the Prince took the chair at the initial meeting of the Statutory Committee of the Naval and Military Pensions Act, in London. The work of the committee was to deal with pensions and allowances to be subsequently granted to those who have been engaged in the war, and their wives, families and dependents.

It speaks much for the Prince's wisdom that he could look so far ahead. His studies of the workings of the government departments had shown him that their methods, just and generous though they might be in alloting pensions to disabled soldiers and their dependents, would not be able to thoroughly investigate and satisfy individual and exceptional cases. It was highly desirable that a more or less independent committee be established to look into such cases, and the Prince threw every energy—so far as his work at the front would allow—to further the aims of the Pensions Committee.

The Prince has ever had the needs of the ex-servicemen at heart. At a meeting of the Royal Patriotic Fund Corporation held

I see by the paper that Gene Tunney says "the only joy to be obtained by boxing is by facing a man of physical and intellectual equality."

It looks like his two fights with Dempsey were a total loss as far as intellectual ecstasy was concerned.

But I imagine the financial returns offset the literary loss.

Two explosions rocked Hollywood yesterday and nobody knows who set them off. Evidently somebody had heard one of the talking pictu ; taken part in by screen actors.

HALF WIVES

Ione Is Listed on Board As Winner of First Honor and Bonus

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ione Farr, just out of high school, gets a position with Max Weimar, a music publishing house in New York. Her chum, Marie Karey, is engaged to Palmer Elliott, a young lawyer, whom she later marries. She is always holding up as a model Ione's married sister, Jenepher, who has a small son and also holds a fine position in a smart New York shop. Benz, Weimer's office manager, takes Ione to Tin Pan Alley, where she meets the famous song writer, Wolfie Speed. Ione falls in love with Alan Blake, an accompanist, and they plan to be married as soon as Blake can support her. She is inclined to be jealous of Fluff Harwick, a new girl in the office. She feels that Jenepher is proving that a wife cannot hold down a job and run a household and do both successfully. She tries to be nice to Fluff, but the latter repulses her and she has her first quarrel with Blake on account of her. At Marie's house for dinner they learn all about a 50-50 marriage. Benz makes further plans to advance Ione. He tells her jobs are not handed out through friendship but ability. Alan is made branch manager for his firm and gets a raise. He urges Ione to marry him at once. Ione insists, however, on giving her employer notice and the day is set for the wedding. Alan arrives and finds Ione in her bridal attire awaiting him. After the wedding they visit Alan's folks. The following week they return to the city and hunt for an apartment. Their first meal at home is very pleasant. Fluff Harwick is made Alan's secretary, but Ione tries not to be a suspicious wife. In order to keep within her budget, she tries laundering. Alan surprises her at the tubs and objects vigorously to her working. She prepares to celebrate her birthday. Blake tries to borrow some of the household money from her, but she has none left. He finds himself kept late at the office with Fluff Harwick. He goes to Fluff's studio for pancakes. Meanwhile Ione fears she is becoming a drag on her husband.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

SHE rode for a while, just thinking.

That night Ione met him at the door, put her arms about him, and held back the tears as she thought of the afternoon; the row of figures, the thoughts of clothes for him, for herself.

"Happy, Lan?" she asked.

"Happiest man in the world," he answered.

Ione always thought her ardent wish to help Alan acted as a magnet, drawing the phone call from Eddie Benz on a sunny June morning. She had worked over the bills until she felt the figures were personal enemies. She had schemed to find how to make $40 a week pay them all, and leave enough over to buy spring clothes. But there wasn't any.

But Eddie's call, his friendly voice sent gloom slinking. And when he had hung up the phone piece, she recalled that she hadn't refused to come down to the office, because he hadn't given her the chance.

What was it he had for her? Some sort of a job? She pondered, then went down, and after seeing Eddie she moved through the studios and stopped in Lan's office. He made her sit on his desk.

Shyly but casually she mentioned her errand. "It'll pay over forty, Lan," she told him, "and it's only for two weeks. You don't mind?"

"My wife! Taking orders. Rushing at everybody's beck and call. It's all right, I suppose. It's all right."

She chatted gaily across the table at night, but Lan's moroseness disturbed her, and she recovered only when she thought of the bills, her slender wardrobe. And finally, cheerlessly, he consented. And Ione marveled how easily she slipped back into the routine of the office.

But it was difficult, the busy morning, up at 6:30, breakfast at 7 for Lan and herself, the rush to the office and then a constant day, enlivened only by the kindness of Eddie Benz—Eddie, who was 50 and whose hair was beginning to silver at the temples.

The rush home and marketing at night, with Lan irritable over the wait at the stores; cleaning the apartment after dinner, the laundry checking, the bills.

Expenses were higher than she had hoped. She had planned on five dollars for carfare and lunches; by Wednesday four of the dollars were spent.

That was why she spread a sandwich of Janey's blackberry jam and wrapped it up with one of Tom's wine apples and slipped the paper into her handbag so Alan wouldn't see.

At noon, when everybody was gone, she got it out and began to eat at her desk.

The sandwich was a substantial thing in two triangles and the heat had softened the jam so it kept dripping. She took a triangle in each hand, holding her mouth open to catch the drops as they fell.

But the jam had a way of sliding from unexpected places; a splash came down her cheek, another landed squarely on her chin; she had to stop eating to laugh at herself.

This was happening when Eddie Benz walked into the room—stopped short—roared.

"I've heard of small boys crashing the jam! Too busy to go out? Take all the time you need, Ione. No one's driving."

She shook her head, cheeks staining. "You're to know it's home-grown jam, Mister Eddie, and worth a noon hour inside. Indeed I'm killing plenty of time for you."

He knew why she had brought a sandwich! She fancied him feeling sorry for her as she had felt for Marie the day they went to the Van Rex and she paid Marie's bill.

She would have no one feeling that way about her! Indeed she got into quite a temper about it, sitting there by herself.

And when Benz strolled in the next day and said "Lunch?" carelessly, as he used to do, she refused almost angrily. "Haven't time today, thanks."

He loitered in the room, turning some papers. "Come to think of it I couldn't go, anyway. Expecting a call, you know."

Then he went out and returned in a half hour with a waiter from the restaurant downstairs at his heels. The waiter began to put out chicken patties and tall glasses of iced coffee.

Benz grinned at her astonishment. "You don't mind, my dear? The man hates to eat alone, as you'll remember. And seeing as how we're both slaves to duty! You'll join me then; that's only kindness."

So friendly it seemed.

Ione told him about the lunch with Benz. He was tool silent, and when she questioned him, he said, "Forget it," and settled into a silent gloom.

CHAPTER XXXV.

EARLY in the week Ione's name went up on the bulletin board.

She came upon it unexpectedly, finding Emma Shepherd and Fluff Hartwick gossiping there.

Fluff retreated behind the stare she seemed to keep for her chief's wife and Miss Shepherd rattled along with a shallow sound.

"How does it seem to be so bright, Miss Farr? Say, is it true Tony Ross won't talk to anybody from here but you? Sends you flowers, too, doesn't he? Should think that good-looking husband of yours'd be jealous all righty."

Ione made an angry little movement; blood dashed her cheeks. "Wasting your genius, Em, ol' dear. Why not write out your fancies and sell 'em to the magazines? But wherefor the compliments?"

They moved aside then and she saw the board. She kept looking at her name, "Miss Ione Farr, first honor and bonus." A glow swept her; she felt tremendously lifted up.

"Well, it's fine—it's wonderful—" stammering that; walking away. She wanted to be alone with her triumph, feeling it so keenly, loving it so.

How would Alan feel about it?

He called for her shortly after 5 o'clock. She turned her face up, alight with eagerness, giving him a half-pleading smile.

"You heard the glad news, Lan?"

"Oh, congrats. You deserved it, Io. Listen; supposing we eat downtown tonight? Crash the monotony and so forth."

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Eleanor Awakens and Misses the Locket

I KNEW what had happened as soon as my eyes fell upon Eleanor Lincoln's face. In her opiate-induced sleep her fingers had strayed to her throat in the habitual gesture with which she was wont to assure herself of the safety of her necklace with the hidden miniature depending from it. The resultant shock to her sub-conscious mind had triumphed over the stupor induced by the drug, and she had awakened to terror dazed, but real.

"Oh—oh! What shall I do?" she moaned, her eyes sending frantic glances from side to side. "My mother's miniature!"

With quickened pulses at this confirmation of the astounding theory I had formed concerning the identity of the young chatelaine of The Larches, I put my hand upon her groping ones and bent over her, speaking slowly and distinctly.

"Have you lost something?" I asked then quickly averted my eyes that she might have a chance to pull herself together. Sooner or later, I knew that I must tell her of my newly discovered knowledge, but I did not wish to startle her while she was still so upset over her loss.

There was a silence of several seconds, then, with a betraying catch of the breath, she said, tremulously:

"I have lost my chain and pendant. I don't remember having it after I heard the news of—Aunt Anna's illness. Do you remember when you saw it around my neck last?"

"I didn't see it when you were at the farmhouse this morning," I said truthfully, "for you remember, you kept your jacket on, and had a silk scarf around your neck. I do remember that you clutched at your scarf as if you were choking when you heard the news about your aunt. Perhaps you loosened the chain then. But are you sure it is lost? May it not have caught in your gown somewhere? We put you into bed without even taking off your coat, you know; you were so chilled and so ill. Shall I loosen your coat and see if I can find it?"

"Pray do not trouble," she said with a touch of her old hauteur. "I am better now. I will look for it myself."

I stepped back from the bed while she thrust fumbling hands beneath the blanket. The next instant she uttered a joyful little scream, while the eyes, which I secretly had likened to pansies, were suddenly incandescent.

"Oh, it isn't lost! I have it safe!" The words were a paean as she drew the necklace out, one hand tightly closed over the miniature in a futile attempt to hide it from me. For a second or two she looked at me, trying vainly to hold fast to the composed demeanor which was the heritage of her birth and training. But, after all, she was only a young frightened girl who had gone through much, and I was not surprised when she threw out her hands to me, the necklace still in them, and burst into hysterical sobbing.

"Lie still and I'll bathe your face and bring you a drink of water."

She obeyed me, lay passive as I laved her face and hands. But her great black eyes were searching my face, and I was not surprised when, after I had finished, she said breathlessly, as if the words were forced from her:

"I can't stand it any longer. I must tell somebody, and you seem so strong and kind and wise. I know I can trust you."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Baby Teeth Should Not Be Neglected

IT IS difficult to compare the good things which are done for humanity, but to my mind the greatest are those done for the child. Whenever I hear of some progressive thing which will promote the health and happiness of children it thrills me.

DR. COPELAND

To build solidly the foundation of child health increases the health of these individuals when they grow to adult life. This, in turn, guarantees the health and vigor of the next generation.

A great convention of dentists was held a while ago. There were debates and arguments, addresses were made by delegates from everywhere, and, in its beneficial results such a convention means more to the good of a nation than any political convention ever convened.

If some of my colleagues in the Senate read this I don't know what they will think. Fortunately for me, "senatorial courtesy" will protect me from serious attack!

I am reading the proceedings of the dental convention. They should be read by everybody. Fathers and mothers should be just as well informed on health matters as on society and political matters.

You know we have two sets of teeth. You and I are using the second or permanent teeth. Before we got them we had our "baby teeth." This first set, the temporary or "deciduous teeth," as the dentists call them, disappears by the time the child gets to be 10 or 12 years of age.

The good dentist marvels at the neglect of the baby teeth. We have no right to disregard any ailment or defect. It is our solemn duty to give attention to every trouble, no matter when or where it occurs. Just because the baby teeth are temporary does not excuse neglect. Along this line, I quote from a famous dentist:

"All of the purposes for which the second set of teeth are intended apply equally or with even greater importance to the first set of teeth, and since the child has a smaller number of teeth, each tooth is proportionately of greater value. All of the diseases to which the second teeth are subject also affect the first set. And in all the serious ways by which the second teeth may affect the health, the first teeth likewise may affect the health of the child. Because of the greater needs of the child for growth and development, and of its susceptibility to physical derangements and diseases, I have no hesitancy in stating that the deciduous teeth are of greater value to the child than the permanent teeth are to the adult for equal periods of time."

The lesson of all this is that the little child must visit the dentist and receive care equal to that given the grownups.

Answers to Health Queries

A. M. Q.—I am always suffering from head colds and my nose is nearly always clogged up. Is there any reason for it?

2—My hair is falling out very fast. What would you advise?

A.—Probably due to a catarrhal condition. Have the nose and throat examined. It is very important to keep the nasal passages free.

2—The condition of the health has an important bearing on the condition of the hair and scalp.

R. S. Q.—Is orange juice harmful to one suffering from neuritis?

A.—No. Neuritis is caused by some infection in the system. Have your teeth, gums, tonsils and nasal sinuses examined for possible points of infection.

* * *

M. K. Q.—What will benefit high blood pressure?

2.—What is the cause of granulated eyelids?

A.—Proper diet and general care.

2.—This condition is generally due to infection. Bathe the eyes with a mild, warm solution of boracic acid several times a day and apply 1% yellow oxide of mercury ointment to the lids at night. However, have the eyes tested to see if glasses are needed.

* * *

P. M. D. Q.—What do you advise for neuritis and rheumatism?

A.—First of all locate the source of infection—have the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, intestinal and urinary tracts investigated. Application of heat will give relief from the pain until the further treatment can be advised.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, September 1

THE adverse positions of important planets forecast business as well as personal troubles and anxieties for this day. The lunar opposition to Mercury warns against signing new contracts or making verbal agreements without due precaution; and the same aspect to Venus enjoins care in keeping up harmonious conditions in social, domestic and romantic affairs. This threatened complication is emphasized by the mutual configuration.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the door of a year requiring readjustments and complications in personal as well as business relations. Sign all manner of documents with precaution and shun gossip. A child born on this day may be disposed to be lax in speech and writings, which may bring business, domestic and social complications.

And he renounced many glamorous desires and turned aside from pleasure and diversions; and all his days were spent in labor and in striving.

* * *

And it came to pass, in time, that his wish was granted. But when he sat in the midst of the Mighty, he hearkened vainly for the plaudits, but heard only the whisper of envy and the sneers of the knockers. And his heart was sad. For he perceived that a great man is only a beam in the eye and a target for the tongue of slanderers and the pen of cartoonists and wise-crackers.

HELEN ROWLAND

Then he sighed, "What a fool was I! For, alas, not fame, but only love of women bringeth happiness. Lead me to them!"

* * *

And, lo, he turned his back upon his labors, and sought after women and dalliance. And he found a damsel who pleased his eyes and delighted his senses, and set out to win her.

* * *

But when he had won her, behold, he found her flatter than a marcel wave in a fog, and more boresome and burdensome than a pet mosquito. And quarreling and nagging were his portion. For her only appeal was sex appeal. And after each conquest, he was sore at heart, and more lonely than before.

* * *

Whereupon, he turned from women and set himself to acquire riches. For, he said, "Money is power! And will BUY anything!"

And after many years it came to pass that his coffers overflowed, and his yachts and motor cars and airplanes and houses were so many that he could not count them.

* * *

Yet, lo, he was not happy! For he found himself beset by grafters and promoters and robbers in friends' clothing. And, he lived behind locked doors, in fear and suspicion of all mankind.

And there came a day, when he gave away all his moneys, and set forth upon a lonely road to the Land of Adventure. And beside him walked the Woman of His heart. And to cheer his spirit, he made a little song and sang it as they went. And, behold, for the first time in all his life he was HAPPY!

For all his days he had desired secretly to make songs but had never found the time or the inspiration. And he said in his heart, "At last, I have found the road to the Land of Heart's Desire!"

* * *

"Verily, verily, only that man is happy who doeth the thing that he rejoiceth to do! Even he who hath found the WORK he loveth, the WOMAN he loveth, and is FREE!" SELAH.

Sage Advice from Fay King on Love Problems

By FAY KING

WATCH yourself when that impulse comes to say too much about your private affairs and you feel impelled to seek advice!

Love problems, especially, are risky matters in which to ask help from others.

Many a girl has been influenced into breaking her own heart because some friend had advised her to be too unforgiving!

Wives have started divorce proceedings because someone has put too much emphasis upon some little marriage problem.

There are some who delight in hearing the troubles of others and who make matters too serious by agreeing and amplifying the matter.

It takes a long time to get to the place where he can say "hello," but it only takes a moment to say "goodby" forever.

The only advice I have to give to those in love is to seek the advice of your head and heart.

When a problem presents itself, weigh the matter well in the council of your own thoughts. Don't kid yourself and don't spite yourself either.

Many a girl has permitted her pride to be fanned into a flame of resentment by some disinterested person. Upon their advice she has made more of a matter than it amounts to, and has sent out of her life some one she cares a great deal for.

Don't worry what people will think or say! Everybody has problems of their own. If they lose any sleep it's over their own affairs, not yours. For a day or so they may seem surprised, but in a week or so they have forgotten.

Don't be afraid to change your mind and your heart—and the less you confide in others the less you will have to explain!

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

Lionel Barrymore Again Cast For Second Attempt to Film Story Thriller by Jules Verne

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31.

WITH the exception of "Ben Hur," it is doubtful whether any photoplay has caused Metro the trouble which it has suffered in attempting to film "The Mysterious Island," The Jules Verne thriller is admittedly a "natural" in providing material for a screen translation. But the production has been haunted by a most persevering jinx. One of the recent causes for its temporary abandonmnt was the destuction of the entire equipment of a unit sent to the Bahama Islands on location. Terrific storms were encountered and the project written off to profit and loss—mostly loss. Benjamin Christenson shot a lot of studio stuff for the picture, which also has been rejected, and now Metro is beginning all over again in laudable determination to make a picture of the yarn or die in the attempt.

Lionel Barrymore and Jacqueline Gadsden, who were in the original version, have been cast again in the same parts. Montague Love has an important role and James Murray, still a Metro favorite despite his alleged "tantrums," has the juvenile lead. This time the production is in the capable hands of Lucien Hubbard. Of course it will have sound and whatnot.

Not so far back a Mr. Dave Lamar figured rather too extensively in the public prints as "The Wolf of Wall Street." Of course the soubriquet makes a marvelous title for a film thriller, and after about $1,000 worth of negotiations with claimers of the name, Paramount secured all rights to it. The picture itself goes into production very soon, with George Bancroft as the wolf, and Fay Wray as the girl. Maybe Fay will be a latter-day "Little Red Riding Hood," as they make 'em in the movies. Anyway, she'll have to dispose of the wolf before she encounters the cannibals, etc., in "Four Feathers."

Fourteen years ago Edward Connolly signed a contract in New York to play character roles for Metro. He has been playing them ever since in some of the most important pictures the company has produced. Year after year Connolly has renewed with the lion, until just the other day he affixed his signature to the fourteenth contract he has held. Connolly could tell an interesting story of those whom he has seen come—and go.

Jimmy Gleason and Al Santell, having cooked up a story for Vilma Banky, hit upon a title they figured as sure-fire. It is "Childs'—Fifth Avenue." But it seems that Mr. Samuel Goldwyn objects. Perhaps on the ground that it is not a children's film.

Harry Langdon has decided to accept a "vode" proposition for the present and will gallop about the country as an act for the next month or so. Upon return to Hollywood he will select the one of three offers on hand which contains greatest appeal. Harry hasn't been idle since his last film, and has a lot of good story material to be made into comedies. His first stops will be Seattle and San Francisco.

The race for the star role in "Lummox" is getting more and more thrilling. One day it looks like Louise Dresser; the next, Belle Bennett comes to the fore. This is one of Belle's days, and if things stay just as they are until Brenon shoots the film, she will enact one of the coveted roles of the season.

Roland Brew, formerly Walter Goss, of the New York Herald, formerly of the Paramount School for Actors, formerly leading man with Delores Del Rio in "Ramona," is looked upon favorably by the Mexican star and her director, Edwin Carewe, for the male part in "Evangeline." In fact, it seems that cables have been received from abroad which practically assure Roland of the role. Incidentally, Dolores and her party are quite well, thank you, and have just left London for that Gay Paree.

Joy Auburn, who used to be Alice McCormick, when she was in the "Follies," is getting a well-deserved break as leading lady for Tom Mix in his next picture. Tom, versatile as usual, is writing it himself, and is putting in enough thrills for a half-dozen "specials." Joy, by the way, is still seen frequently with Billy Joy, Leatrice's brother.

June Collyer continues to get on in the world. They are re-decorating a bungalow dressing room on the Fox lot, and when it is completed June will step in—a full-fledged star. Her bungalow is right next to that occupied by Lois Moran.

SPECIALTIES IN "BURLESQUE"

The comedy success, "Burlesque," which Arthur Hopkins brings to the Alvin for a week, beginning with a Labor Day matinee, makes unusual demands upon its two leading performers, Hal Skelly and Barbara Stanwyck. They both must be song and dance specialists, as well as actors, because each of them has to give what practically amounts to a show, numbers and all, within the limits of the play.

Music and talking sequences are a feature of "Simba," the wild animal picture, which comes Monday to the Nixon. The Dulcetone, a sound device, will present a musical accompaniment to the film action, and, in addition, there will be spoken descriptions by Martin Johnson. Mr. Johnson and his wife, Osa Johnson, spent four years in the jungles making the film.

A matinee performance Monday will usher in the final week of the second season of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt. The closing attraction will be "Nightie Night," a farce comedy. The action of the play opens in a parlor car of a New York-Washington train.

KENNYWOOD PLANS FIREWORKS DISPLAY

The management of Kennywood Park in announcing a board of judges to preside at the giving away of the Waco airplane at the park on Monday evening, also announces a fireworks display for tomorrow night. The giving away of the airplane will be governed by a group of men prominent in the Pittsburgh district. They are Councilman Daniel Winters, Raymond Marller, past president of the Aero Club; William S. Haddock, president of the A. A. U.; Thomas Quinn, inspector for the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry in the Pittsburgh district, and the aviation editors of the city's three daily newspapers.

OFFER "LILAC TIME" AT MIDNIGHT SHOW

The Regent will offer a midnight performance of "Lilac Time" this Sunday night. This picture of war in the air stars Colleen Moore. Carp Cooper portrays the hero role.

SOME CLOSEUPS -:- OF PROMINENT PERSONS -:- IN HOLLYWOOD LIFE

Pola Negri assumes the role of animal trainer long enough to teach Patsy, her pet pup, a few tricks.

Postmaster Harvey Pugh, of Paramount studios, handles 150,000 letters monthly.

Meet Baclanova, blonde Russian featured player, who is to emote in "Forgotten Faces."

Kathryn McGuire went shopping—the result, a new coat for autumn.

The Prince of Wales
His Story

at the Conference Hall, Whitehall, early in 1916, the Prince laid before the committee the urgent need to look after the interests of the wounded soldiers.

He was persistent in his demands to personally visit the front-line trenches. On the way he often met long processions of wounded soldiers, and always he had a cheery word for them and often emptied his own cigaret case amongst them. On one occasion he came in contact with a band of German prisoners, many of whom were wounded. Crossing over to them he chatted with them in fluent German for a few minutes.

Rumors of Engagement

On many occasions the soldiers were surprised to look up and find the Prince actually in the trenches beside them. It is reported that the young officer once penetrated to within 30 yards of the enemy, and as he stood chatting with a Tommy, a bullet from a German sniper's rifle struck the man and he crashed to the ground, shot through the chest. At once the Prince knelt and administered first aid until a stretcher came to carry the wounded man to a dressing station.

The Prince was always interested in the activities of the British airmen and would cheer loudly when, after a breathless chase, a British machine overtook and brought down the enemy. On one occasion, after witnessing a thrilling tussle in the air, in which the British plane was victorious, the airmen landed only a short distance from where the Prince was standing.

At once he rushed to the spot and heartily congratulated them on the excellent maneuver and the tactics they had employed in bringing down the Fokker, which had intended dropping its bombs on a hospital a few miles behind the British lines, and near which the Prince was at that time stationed.

The King of Italy had already conferred upon the Prince of Wales the Knight's Cross of the Military Order of Savoy, and in May, 1916, the Prince arrived at the Italian military headquarters. Great crowds gave the visitor an enthusiastic welcome as, accompanied by the King of Italy, he passed through the flag-bedecked streets in an open car.

Together with King Victor Emmanuel's A. D. C. the Prince visited the Isonzo front as far as Monte Nero, and then the Cadore-Trentino front and next the Carso front. The Prince concluded his visit to the Italian area with a short sea cruise to Grado.

At this time rumors of the engagement of the Prince of Wales to the eldest daughter of the Italian royal family, the Princess Yolande of Savoy, reached England.

Although the rumors were officially denied from the outset, it was not until after the war that many people disbelieved the suggestions of such a marriage.

Honeydew Melon.
Chicken Creole with Rice.
Green Lima Beans.
Head Lettuce Special Dressing.
Blueberry Betty.

SERVE thoroughly chilled slices of Honeydew melon, sprinkled with a little lemon juice as a first course.

I think you will like this Creole recipe. It is rather different. Choose a nice young fowl and have it cut in small joints. Season well with salt and pepper and saute in a good sized frying pan with 2 tablespoonsful of butter. When nicely seared on all sides add the following vegetables cut in small pieces. Two small white turnips, 2 carrots, 2 onions, 1 clove of garlic, 1 small piece of lemon peel and 3 tomatoes. Spice with salt and pepper to taste, a bit of chile pepper pod, 1 bay leaf, 2 cloves, a pinch of thyme and a sprig of parsley. Add 2 quarts of water and allow to simmer for 30 minutes. Remove the chicken and add 1 cup of well washed rice. Place over a hot fire and cook rapidly, stirring all the while, for 15 minutes. The rice should absorb most of the liquid. Put the rice and vegetables in the bottom of a casserole and place the chicken on top. Dot with a few pieces of butter and place in a hot oven for another 30 minutes.

SHELL small lima beans and barely cover with boiling salted water. Cook until tender, 25 to 30 minutes and serve with butter.

Wash head lettuce, chill and cut in sections. For the dressing make a French dressing of 2 tablespoonsful of lemon juice, 3 tablespoonsful of olive oil, and 1 tablespoonful each of chopped green pepper, radish and cucumber. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

For the Blueberry Betty, fill a casserole or pudding dish with alternate layers of blueberries sprinkled with sugar and buttered bread crumbs. Top with the buttered bread crumbs and bake in the oven for 50 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream or hard sauce.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE — Three cups sugar, 1½ cups milk, 3 squares chocolate, 1 tablespoonful Blue Ribbon Malt Extract (hop flavored), 1½ tablespoonsful butter.

Stir the grated chocolate, sugar, Blue Ribbon Malt Extract, hop flavored, and milk until the sugar is dissolved. Boil to soft ball stage, or 234 degrees Fahrenheit. Add the butter, remove from fire, cool to lukewarm, and beat until creamy. Pour into buttered tins.

APPLE CAKE PUDDING—Peel and core 6 large apples. Boil them in enough water to cover to a pulp, then strain. Add 3 large boiled potatoes, mashed dry through a colander. Then add 1 cup sugar, rind and juice of 2 lemons, and 4 well beaten eggs. Stir to smooth batter. Pour into buttered mold and steam two hours.

* * *

NOODLES AND APPLES—Cook 2 cups boiled noodles. Wash, pare and cut 4 apples. Melt 2 tablespoons fat and 2 of butter in frying pan, put in one-half the noodles, then apples. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons sugar, a little salt and cinnamon, cover with remaining noodles. Let cook until apples are soft and noodles browned. Keep covered first 10 minutes.

O'LAUGHLINS WIN AT UNIONTOWN

It's a Serious Matter Getting Into the "World Serious"

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

Rain Cuts Play Short

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 31.—Mid-afternoon rain put abrupt halt to yesterday's contesting in the Fayette county net championships in progress here on the courts of the Uniontown Tennis Club. Long had the downpour threatened and torrential it was when at length it came, but despite its effort to ruin hostilities entirely, it arrived too late to prevent a goodly section of the men's singles event from attaining the quarter-final round.

The redoubtable Dave O'Loughlin, Pittsburgh Athletic Association ace, distanced all competitors by clicking off Frank Newhall, home veteran, and Tack Hammer, Westmoreland county titleholder, to lead the field into the semi-finals.

DAVE IN FORM

O'Loughlin, apparently in far better form than he displayed last week in loosing to Jarvis Adams at Bedford Springs, encountered little difficulty with Newhall, who succumbed at 6-0, 6-1. A bit later the Winged Head star took the rectangular against Hammer.

Jimmy O'Connor, former Duke luminary, returned to the racquet realm after a considerable absence and entered the quarter-finals with ease, his victims being Rush, of Uniontown, 6-2, 6-2, and Krupensky, California Normal gridder, 6-1, 6-1. O'Connor's barrier play has improved and should stand him in good stead today when he will face B. F. Akle, youthful Wheeling cracks, who yesterday downed Browning and Dickerson, of Uniontown, and Woohall, clever Morgantown youngster, without difficulty. O'Connor's ex-Duke teammate, Sullivan, also edged into the round of eight. His third frame opponent having been Paul Soisson, Connellsville driver, who went under only after the hottest sort of a battle, 6-4, 7-5.

The untimely storm interrupted a ripping encounter between Billy O'Loughlin, Shady Side Academy captain, and J. G. Carroll, Jr., accomplished local youth. O'Loughlin's heavy forehand prevailed in the initial set, 6-3, but Carroll's consistency accounted for seance two by the same count.

BUCS TO KEEP HOCKEY BERTH

MONTREAL, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The franchise of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National Hockey League will not be transferred, it has been learned here. Since late in the last season there have been rumors that the franchise would be sold either to Cleveland or to Philadelphia, but it now is quite certain that the team will remain in the Smoky City for at least one more season.

Representatives of the Pittsburgh club have been here this week conferring with Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League.

HUTH HITS 47TH

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Babe Ruth today is seven days and four home runs ahead of his 1927 record. The "King of Swat" hit his forty-seventh homer yesterday off Sam Jones in the seventh inning of the Yankee-Senator game. The homer was the only run scored by the Yanks.

SANDLOT BASEBALL by TOM BIRKS

THE Panama Zone team, winner of the Panama American Legion eliminations, will show its stuff at the Homewood playgrounds this evening, meeting the East End Cardinals. Most of the fans that watched the Pittsburgh entries in the Legion tourney will no doubt make the trip to the East End to watch the visitors do their stuff. The Panama outfit was in the final at Chicago, but lost out.

THE East End Cardinals, under the leadership of Manager Ryan, have been playing snappy baseball all season, and appear to be the logical outfit to give the visitors a real battle. Should weather and ground conditions be suitable the game will get under way at 6:30 sharp.

TOMORROW afternoon at Dean Field, the J. L. Thomas club will play the Massillon Agathons. The Buckeye State boys are considered one of the strongest touring ball clubs in the tristate district. Manager Zappa wants to get this game in the fold, and will probably send Loos to the mound in order to cop the battle.

THE W. O. W. No. 305 outfit that will represent the Greater Pittsburgh district in the eliminations at Cincinnati, will meet Etna on the latter's grounds tomorrow afternoon. Manager Jednak, of the Rox outfit, is getting all the competition he can for the club before that trip to Cincinnati is begun.

NOTES of the BOXERS

SID TERRIS and Phil McGraw box at the Coney Island Stadium tonight. Walcott Langford meets Frankie Schoell at Buffalo and Corp. Izzy Schwartz defends his flyweight title a second time against Frisco Grande, the Filipino, at Long Branch, N. J.

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, boxes Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, in a 10-round windup at Erie tonight.

Johnny Risko boxes Bearcat Wright, Negro heavyweight, at Omaha Friday night of next week.

Jim Sigman, of Toledo, former Navy heavyweight champion, has been signed to box Ike McFowler, Johnstown Negro, in the main bout at Duquesne next Thursday night.

Homer Robertson and George (Wop) Manolian boxed a 10-round draw in Boston last night. Robertson has been matched with Maxie Rosenbloom at West Springfield, Mass., September 10. He lost a decision to Maxie at Motor Square Garden last winter.

Promoter Humbert Fugazy is trying to induce Knute Hansen to meet Roberto Roberti in a heavyweight elimination bout for charity at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Columbus Day. Roberti is willing, but Hansen's various managers are not.

George Godfrey and Pierre Charles box at Detroit tonight.

PLAYERS GIVE DONIE GIFT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

When Manager Donie Bush, of the Pirates, took his players to the clubhouse this afternoon for the customary short meeting preceding a game, the pilot was the victim of a very pleasant surprise. Reaching the locker room, Pie Traynor, captain, and the other members of the club took charge of the meeting, to the astonishment of the manager. At the same time a beautiful lounging chair was carried to the middle of the picture.

Bush was completely taken off his guard as he was presented the token, a gift of the Pittsburgh athletes of the last year's flag-winning team.

The presentation speech was made by A. K. (Rosy) Rowswell. Bush was surprised to such an extent that he found it hard to recover to express himself. Needless to say, Donie was tickled over the thoughtful actions of his players and he let them know as much.

YANK NETMEN TIE FRENCH

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Darkness fell on the Longwood Cricket Club here last night just a few minutes before a heavy shower ended the furious struggle which George M. Lott, Jr., and John Hennessy, top-seeded Americans, had waged with Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, of France, to enter the final round of the national tennis doubles championship.

This international match was halted with the two pairs of court stars deadlocked. Each team had won two sets, and the fifth set stood four games all when they decided to quit and replay the match today.

Lott and Hennessy must win the replayed match today if America is to be represented in the final, for Gerald Patterson and Jack Hawkes, of Australia, qualified for the title round at the expense of Johnnie Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, the second American semi-finalists, in four hard-fought sets, 6-4, 6-3, 7-9, 6-4.

The Lott-Hennessy and Cochet-Brugnon match contained more sparkling tennis than all of the other matches in the tournament combined.

Hornsby Signed For Six Years By Braves

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby has signed a contract to manage the Boston Braves for the next six years, Judge Emil Fuchs has announced. The Judge also took the opportunity to put an end to stories that the Boston club is controlled by New York capital.

In his statement Judge Fuchs said that Hornsby signed the contract during the summer.

In declaring the independence of the Braves, Judge Fuchs pointed out that the team had just knocked the New Yorkers out of the pennant race and said the records showed that the Braves played better ball against McGraw's team than against any other team in the league.

HAGEN PLANS GOLF TOUR OF AUSTRALIA

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—Walter Hagen, here for the second match tomorrow of his world golf championship series with Johnny Farrell, announced he would sail from San Francisco, October 20, for a golf tour of Australia.

The British open champion will visit South Africa later, he said, leaving South America and Asia the only continents on which he has not played.

Set Dates For City Play

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

CITY golfers will swing their clubs in the annual city championship tournament over the Schenley public links starting September 25 and continuing through until September 28. This was made known last night by the championship tournament committee of the municipal links.

The golfers will play a 36-hole qualifying round. The first and second rounds will be played the second day of the meet, Wednesday, and Thursday evening the field will reach the finals in all divisions. The finalists will play 36 holes for the titles in all divisions Friday.

Carl Kauffmann, holder of the national public links title, may not be on hand to defend his city crown. There is a chance he will be playing in the Cambridge Springs invitation tournament.

The date was changed because a Jewish holiday falls on September 24, according to John Jay Burke.

TIGERS PAY $50,000 FOR TEXAS LOOP PAIR

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 31.—Sale of Heinie Schuble, shortstop, and Frank Barnes, left-handed pitcher, to the Detroit Tigers for $50,000 was announced today by President Fred Ankeman of the Houston Buffaloes.

While no individual prices were given out, it is generally understood here that Schuble brought about $35,000. It was believed to be a record price for a Texas leaguer.

Schuble and Barnes will report immediately after the Dixie series, provided the Buffaloes get into the Southern championship fight, or after the Texas League playoff if Wichita Falls wins the loop title.

BOBBY JONES OUTCLASSES BRITISH CHAMP

Study In Head Work :-: As Practiced By Jim Bottomley :-: Star of Cardinals

PHOTOS BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The pictures above are of one and the same gentleman, Sunny Jim (left to right) Bottomley, fence-busting first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, who are in the midst of a crucial series with our Pirates at Forbes Field. Like most baseball stars, Jim has some mannerisms all of his own and the most noticeable of these is the way, or the variety of ways, he moves under his cap. The skypiece gets plenty of wear and tear from the constant shifting of its position, and one almost can tell the way the ball game is going from the angle of the bonnet on Jim's noble brow. Also how things are going in general for the usually bubbling over Sunshine Kid. Jim really has many more ways of wearing his head adornment than are shown here, but there is no more room in this strip for further illustration, and, besides, you ought to get the idea by now.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Each Major League Club May Carry 40 Players After Today—Meadows to Try Come-Back Next Spring—Hunters Entering Into Agreement to Keep Doe-Killing Down to Minimum.

UNDER baseball law, the limit of 25 players to which each major league club has been restricted since June 15 will not be in force after today. Hereafter, until the rules goes into effect again next June, each club may carry a total of not more than 40 active athletes.

Barney Dreyfuss

Players working in the minors under options are counted against the club that sent them out and must be included in the maximum of 40 men. With the reporting of Pitcher Homer Blankenship today, the Pittsburgh club has 25 players "on the ground," and the addition of six who are out under options raises the total to 31.

This leaves room for nine more recruits to be added after today, if desired, including Pitcher Leon Chagnon purchased yesterday from Lynn, but it is unlikely that that number will be taken on.

POSSIBLY the total now charged against the club will be reduced by cancelling one or more options before September 15, the date fixed for the exercising of such claims.

The six Pirate recruits who are out under option are: Pitcher Glenn Spencer, First Baseman Windle and Third Baseman George Gottleber, all with Columbia in the Southern Association; Infielder Coburn (Gabby)) Jones, with Bridgeport in the Eastern League; Pitcher Lester Bartholomew, a left-hander, with Dallas in the Texas League, and Catcher Claude Linton with Decatur in the Three-I League. Jones, Spencer, Bartholomew and Linton, at least, appear certain to be recalled.

PRESIDENT BARNEY DREYFUSS of the Pirates makes it known that Pitcher Lee Meadows is not leaving the Pittsburgh club for good and that the veteran hurler will be back with the Buccaneers next spring.

"Meadows has not been released, nor has he given up baseball, as was erroneously reported in some quarters," the local magnate explained. "He was simply placed on the voluntarily retired list at his own request, saying that he did not wish to accept any further salary from the Pittsburgh club this year when he could not give any service in return for it.

"ALL that the club did in the matter was to notify League President Heydler of Meadows' desires, and President Heydler in turn notified Commissioner Landis. It is the intention of the pitcher to come back next spring. He believes he is far from being done, and says that his arm is making more satisfactory progress toward complete recovery than at any time since neuritis developed in it during the world series of 1925."

Ernest Orsatti

ADAM COMOROSKY, Pirate outfielder, and Ernest Orsatti, who fills a similar post for the Cardinals, were rivals this season in the hot fight between Indianapolis and Minneapolis for the American Association pennant, but each is loud in his praises of the other.

"Orsatti is a great ball player and a born hitter," said Comorosky. "He hits all kinds of pitching equally well." "A remarkable ball player in every respect," said Orsatti of Comorosky. "We could hardly ever get him out in the Association."

ORSATTI, who lived up to his reputation in his one time at bat yesterday by cracking a line single to left, does not confine his activities to baseball. During the off season he doubles for Buster Keaton, film comedian, in the movies. He is of the same height, weight and general build of Keaton, and has the same solemn expression.

The Cardinal sensation says it was Keaton who put him in baseball. The comedian took an interest in the diamond future of Orsatti when the latter began to hang around the Hollywood studios, and in addition to hiring him as a double got him his first job in professional ball. Keaton himself, ac-

HEAT IS FATAL TO NAVY GRIDDER

MIDDIES' ACE DIES AFTER DRILL

ANNAPOLIS, Aug., 31.—(AP.)—Miles Seeser Fox, 19-year-old star on whom Navy had built high hopes for its coming football season, died early today after suffering a sunstroke at football practice yesterday afternoon.

Fox was described by William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram, academy football coach, as "The finest broken field runner the Navy has had in several seasons" and newspapermen and football fans here, observing his work as a Plebe, had dubbed him "The second Red Grange" on the basis of a similarity they saw in his style of play.

Plans for the Navy backfield this year contemplated building up a machine around Fox whose playing first attracted attention at Steelton, Pa., High School, from which he came to the academy, and Coach Ingram had declared he was virtually assured of the quarterback position on the Navy team.

In practice yesterday observers noted the activity of Fox, whom they described as almost in mid-season form. The practice was light, consisting mainly of running down punts, and included no tackling or scrimmage. After practice from 3 to 5 p. m., under a sizzling sun, the team ran to the dressing rooms and Coach Ingram had just congratulated Fox on his showing when the youth collapsed. He was taken to the Naval Academy Hospital where physicians worked until 11 o'clock last night, when they held out hopes for his recovery. Later, however, he lapsed into unconsciousness and died at 1:30 this morning.

Knockout Star of Pacific Coast

IN New York the other night a young squirt of a boxer named Pal Silvers handed a trimming to Old Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, who, at 43, has been executing a neat comeback, having recently beaten Tony Vaccarelli and other sturdy youngsters. Britton also expected to beat Silvers and made a good job of outboxing the latter, but found Pal's rushing tactics too much and had to constantly give ground before his attack.

That's the only way for a young ring hope to fight a doddering old former star who is getting by on his noodle. Not long ago, Emmett Rocco, husky heavyweight, of Ellwood City, who packs a real wallop, tried to outbox the veteran Battling Levinsky in a bout at Akron, and lost the decision. In a return bout, at New Castle, he forced the going all the way and won easily.

Let these oldtimers set their own pace and they can squeeze comfortably through, but force them a wee bit harder or faster than they want to be forced and they have to bow to youth.

THE Frankford Yellow Jackets of Philadelphia, members of the National Professional Football League, have a nice, easy schedule for the coming season. They will play ONLY 22 games, 12 at home and 10 away. Located in the far northeast section of the Quaker City, the Jackets have a loyal following all their own. They draw from a large community of mill-workers, who pay little attention to the doings of the college teams, such as Penn, Temple, Haverford, Villanova and others in the district. Ed Weir, former star tackle at Nebraska, is the new coach of the Jackets, who look for a big season. They play their first game September 16 and will be in action until December 2. The weak sisters in the circuit have been weeded out for the new campaign, and the league has been reduced to 10 teams, as follows: Yellow Jackets, New York Yankees, New York Giants, Pottsville, Green Bay, Wis., Chicago Cardinals, Chicago Bears, Detroit, Dayton and Providence. C. C. Pyle again has the Yankees, but his ace, Red Grange, has quit the game.

WHAT a pity it is that the Pirates' pitching staff couldn't get under way earlier this season. With the same sort of pitching that the club is getting now, it would be well out in front in the pennant race and headed for its second pennant in a row under the management of Donie Bush. As matters stand, with the season still having more than a month to go, the club has a fighting chance to beat out the Cardinals. Even if it fails, the closing rush of the outfit should effectively silence the early-season detrac-

CUBS, BUCS TO SEE DIX IN "WARMING UP"

Through Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Stanley Company has extended an invitation to the Chicago and Pittsburgh teams to attend the Stanley Theater in a body Monday evening to witness a showing of Richard Dix' latest picture, "Warming Up." This is Paramount's first sound picture, and, as the name indicates, is based on the national game.

Among the big league players who appear in the picture are Mike Donlin, one of the most colorful figures in the history of the diamond; Chet Thomas, late of the Red Sox; Don Rader, former Vernon infielder; Bob Murray, of the Milwaukee club. There also are five members of the Los Angeles baseball team of the Pacific Coast League.

OTHER YANKS IN CUP PLAY EXTENDED

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Standing four points ahead as the result of a celan sweep in the foursomes, the Americans started today to win the eight single matches from the Britons in the contest for the Walker Cup. Perfect weather drew a large gallery, most of which followed Bobby Jones, American champion, and T. P. Perkins, British titleholder, in the first match.

Jones took three putts on the first green, but got a half in 5 for the 443-yard hole, as Perkins' drive was in the rough and he did not get home in two. At that he missed a six-foot putt and Bobby failed from five feet for pars.

Jones settled down on the next two holes and shot par to be two up while Perkins failed to reach the greens perfectly, taking 5 on the second and 4 on the 220-yard third.

The next American out, George Von Elm, did not find Dr. William Twedell so soft, for he shot three straight pars and won the third hole to be one up.

JONES ADDS TO LEAD

Jones got a birdie four on the 346-yard fourth by sinking an 18-foot putt and became 2 up as Perkins hooked to rough, taking a par 5. Jones had holed a six-foot

Tunney Chats With Prince Of Wales

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales had a 15-minute chat with Gene Tunney at St. James' palace today. The meeting was purely informal.

The Prince heard that the retired champion was staying in London and made the suggestion that Tunney drop in for a few minutes' talk.

Gene took the opportunity today and talked with the heir apparent on a variety of subjects.

Wales mentioned offhand the name and home of Tunney's fiancee and expressed his best wishes for the happiness of the couple.

tors of the scrappy manager and make them eat crow.

IN Philadelphia, the followers of Benny Bass, or Little Fish, as he is known to them, are counting on him to flash a sensational recovery of form in his bout with Harry Blitman, for the featherweight championship of Pennsylvania and the runner-up position to Tony Canzoneri for the world title, at Shibe Park on the night of September 10. Bass hasn't been himself for some time and a peculiar explanation is given by one of his admirers, who contends Benny has been "master-minded" to death by his manager, Phil Glassman, with the result that he now suffers from an inferiority complex. As he explains it, Bass has become accustomed to fighting under instructions from his pilot, much as John McGraw and other managers force their players to play baseball according to orders all the time they are on the field. Bass' friends believe he will take off the hobbles in the Blitman fight, and do his own thinking and boxing and punching and once more will shine with all his former radiance.

THE two-round technical knockout defeat of Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion of the world, by Young Jack Thompson, a Negro star from California, at Chicago last night, should not be such a surprise in view of the fact that Dundee has been making the mistake of remaining out of the ring except for occasional bouts against dubs, and likely has gained the impression that all of the boys he is being sent against are setups. Reports of last night's bout state that he was trying to "kid" Thompson by sticking out his chin and inviting him to sock it in the first round. Dundee is a good fighter and a worthy champion, but if he is to remain such he must be taken out of his present groove and cut loose against his opponents instead of engaging in occasional bouts in which he is surrounded by alleged "protection."

Young Negro Star Victor

By CLAIR KELLY,
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Young Jack Thompson, panther man from Los Angeles, is this day a sensational, overwhelming figure in the welterweight division following his two-round knockout over the world champion, Joe Dundee, here last night. The latter's title did not pass to the Negro challenger, however, as they fought at one pound above the welter standard.

Joe Dundee

It was a tremendous victory on the part of the western boxer, and moreover it was the most startling outcome of the year in pugilism.

The bout ended as a technical knockout when Referee Ed. Purdy stepped between the Panther and the groggy champion in the second round and stopped the fight after Dundee had been floored twice by the deft attack of the challenger. Purdy's judgment was excellent, as Dundee was out on his feet, helpless and blindly groping at the ropes.

FLOORED TWICE

Thompson, with the lithe spring and the rapier, thrust of a panther in his right paw, floored Dundee for an eight count in the opening minute of the second round. The champion struggled back to his feet and resorted to all of his defensive cunning to protect himself until he could recover, but Thompson pressed in, smartly shifted his attack to Dundee's body and then lashed again to the head.

As Dundee backed to the ropes and around the ring, Thompson pressed in to complete the dramatic victory and presently dropped Dundee on his back in Thompson's corner. The welter champion raised from the resin at the count of six, weakly pulled himself to his hands and knees and arose at the count of nine. It was here that Purdy intervened as Dundee swayed into the ropes hardly able to raise his hands to defend himself.

SECOND KNOCKOUT

Thompson had shot that right hand in in a most menacing manner in the opening round, but Dundee had escaped its full sting by pulling away with the blow. He caught it twice and the second one jolted him, but he slipped two more that followed and was quite indifferent to the potential danger of the blow.

This is the second time in Dundee's career that he has been stopped. Eddie Roberts, another coast welter, stopped the champion in one round in San Francisco last year.

Thompson weighed 148¼ pounds and Dundee scaled 147½. The welterweight limit is 147. Nine thousand fans paid $26,000 to see the show.

cording to the young Italian slugger, is a ball player of no mean ability.

CINCINNATI'S defeat at Chicago's hands yesterday in a game cut to six innings by rain, put the Reds back in a tie with the Pirates for fourth place. Joe McCarthy's club ousted the Giants and rose to second place as a result of its triumph. The McGrawites, league leaders only eight days ago, are now in the ahead of the fourth and' fifth third hole and only seven points clubs. Shifts may occur almost daily for a time in the sultry race.

FOLLOWING up their protest against the declaring of a 13-day open season in Pennsylvania next December for the shooting of female deer, which they hold to be unsportsmanlike, members of a number of hunting clubs in this district are reported to have decided upon other means of protecting the doe.

It is reported that an organized movement is under way whereby each hunter entering into the agreement will pledge himself to take out the special doe shooting license provided for by the game commission's regulations, and then refrain from taking advantage of its privileges.

IN THIS way, it is hoped to keep as many licenses as possibel out of the hands of hunters who have no scruples against shooting a doe, and thus hold the killing down to a minimum.

An opponent of the plan, who is in close touch with the situation throughout the state, doubts the success of the idea. "Such a movement will enable those opposing the killing of female deer to obtain only a small percentage of the licenses, not nearly enough to defeat the purpose of the new regulation," he said. "In my opinion it would be better to carry out the spirit of the law revision which makes it legal to shoot a certain number of female deer the coming season. It would be folly to exterminate the male deer and let all the females survive. The latter have become so numerous that they are hurting crops and to me it seems a matter of necessity to reduce their number."

THE weather man may have been good to the Pirates in forcing of yesterday's game at Forbes Field at the end of the first inning while the Cardinals were leading 2 to 0. Grover Alexander looked to be just about right, and it is no easy matter to spot the remarkable veteran two runs and beat him out. At least the Bucs were given a chance to make a better start when facing Alex in a later game in the important series. The 41-year-old mound master is the main hope of the Redbirds in the final laps of the pennant race. He may not succeed in reaching the mark of 20 victories which he said last spring he would win for Bill McKechnie, but he is apt to come close to doing so, as he now has 14 decisions to his credit against only seven defeats.

putt on the second after getting in a trap with his second and he had to putt around a half stymie on the third.

Bobby snared his second successive birdie at the 317-yard fifth and became 4 up, although Perkins played the last two holes in par.

Jones made it 5 up by taking the sixth with a par 4 as Perkins hooked his tee shot to rough and took 3 to get home and then from eight feet hit Bobby's ball instead of the cup, taking 5.

Jones made it 6 up with a perfect 3 on the shot seventh where Perkins took 5.

Jones' par 4 on the eighth gave him that hole and he reached the turn 6 up after losing the ninth where he was in rough and then in the water, losing the hole to Perkins' par 4 after winning seven straight holes.

Despite his spill on the ninth for a 6 and missing a five-foot putt on the first, Jones scored the out nine in 36, one above par, while the British champion took 42.

Perkins played the tenth and eleventh perfectly and halved both with Jones.

English Industry Lags, Representative Porter Says, on Returning from Abroad —Praises Mussolini.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

FRANCE, Belgium, Germany and Italy are fast recovering from their post-war conditions of depression and unrest, but England is lagging far behind the other European nations. Thus Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, summarized conditions on his return here from Europe.

"CROPS in France and Italy are good this year. Germany and Belgium are expanding their industrial operations," Mr. Porter said, "but England is having difficulty in competing for foreign trade.

"The unemployment dole has encouraged idleness. There is little of the famous 'bulldog tenacity' noticeable.

"SENTIMENT in England, which has always been a free trade nation, is veering towards tariff protection. The Liberals and some of the Conservatives are favoring it.

Incidentally, Premier Baldwin recently was careful to announce that the accusation that he favored a protective tariff is untrue. He stated that he does, however, favor safeguarding industry. No one has been able to discover the difference between the policies so far.

"THE last time I was in Germany," continued Mr. Porter, "I noticed how well kept up the railroads, factories and even the farms were. On inquiring I was told that Germany at the end of the war was faced with the problem of finding work for millions of men.

"The unemployment dole or jobs were the only alternatives. Germany set them to work on every possible type of repairing. Today England is still paying the dole, while Germany's factories are in condition to compete for world trade.

"THE inflation of the mark has placed industrial Germany in a better condition than any other country. Manufacturers paid their debts for practically nothing, while producers in other countries are still burdened with heavy interest.

"I was in Germany when the mark was falling. It ruined the intellectual and salaried classes.

"I met that fiend, Stinnes, who was seizing everything of value in the country. He told me with apparent pleasure how he had just bought some properties from a widow. The payments were to be in yearly amounts, and the probable course of the mark indicated that eventually the payments would be the equivalent of about four cents.

"THE greatest national spirit in existence today has been built up in Italy by Mussolini," said Mr. Porter. "He is secretary of foreign affairs, commerce and everything else, but he is giving his greatest attention to agriculture.

"MUSSOLINI is in accord with us here in our attitude on the drug problem. He was interested in our farms for curing addicts.

"On the mention of drug peddlers Mussolini said, 'They are assassins. We have an island in the Mediterranean where we put them.'"

MR. PORTER concluded the purchase of the site for the new embassy in Paris. Incidentally, the construction of the building will complete the plans made by Gabriel, the architect, when he laid out the Place de la Concorde.

The owner of the site at that time was political boss of the city and refused to erect a building according to the rigid specifications to make all the structures conform. The American embassy will complete the artistic symmetry of the famous street.

MR. PORTER has secured sites for 167 embassies, legations and consulates. Many of them are reproductions of famous American buildings and homes.

Mr. Porter is doing much to supply our foreign representatives with quarters which will give them a dignity worthy of the nation they represent.

STOCKS SWEPT UP BY POOL OPERATORS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Stock prices made further recovery today as large scale pool operations were resumed in a wide assortment of industrials, rails and specialties. More than two score issues were lifted to new high records. Extreme gains ran from 1 to 14 points, with trading so heavy that the ticker again fell more than 20 minutes behind the market.

Call money remained unchanged at 7½ per cent. Banks called $40,000,000 in loans by early afternoon to meet the heavy month-end and Labor Day currency demands. Time money held firm at 6½ per cent. The buying rate on bankers' acceptances was reduced ⅛ of 1 per cent on all maturities.

High-priced specialties were whirled upward at a dizzy pace, many of them at the expense of an over-crowded short interest. Federal Mining and Smelting soared 14 points, International Nickel 9, Continental Can 7 and Radio, Johns Manville and Montgomery Ward 6 points each. Scores of others were lifted 2 to 5 points. One block of 10,000 shares of General Motors changed hands at 198, involving an outlay of nearly $2,000,000.

The rise received its chief impetus from the unexpectedly small increase of $34,000,000 in broker's loans coming on top of a spectacular advance in stock prices. Dissolution of additional bond syndicates and the heavy inflow of funds from Canadian banks, whose loans do not figure in the Federal Reserve brokers' loans reports, were held responsible for the small gain in borrowings. Wall street is looking for temporarily easier call money after the turn of the month, and a general slackening in rates in October when the crop financing is out of the way.

Rails took a more prominent part in the advance today. Missouri Pacific common ran up 4 points to a new top at 74½. St. Louis Southwestern climbed 3 to a new peak at 111⅝, and St. Paul preferred and Rock Island also bettered their previous 1928 high prices. New York Central was bid up 3½ points.

Renewed selling of Loft Candy, based on unconfirmed reports of a stock exchange investigation of recent fluctuations in that issue, sent the stock down about 5 points to 9½, as against a high of 19⅝ on Monday.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—A healthier tone at Liverpool brought a little more confidence into the Chicago wheat pit at today's opening and prices were changed to ⅝c above Thursday's close. The trade, however, continued uninterested and there were enough offers on the upturn to bring small profit-taking. Cool weather lent firmness to the corn market and with shorts covering and some buying by local interests prices were unchanged to ⅝c higher. Oats were steady and provisions easy.

An attitude of watchful waiting prevailed in the wheat pit again today, and after a brief wave of buying that brought out profit-taking on the start, trade dwindled off and prices remained steady at a fraction above yesterday's close during the early part of the session. Liverpool's improvement was the steadying influence and reports of rain in Canada served to better demand for spot wheat and increased continental demand, together with smallness of Australian shipments. Weather Northwest, however, continued favorable to harvesters and threshing returns were good. A private crop estimate placed the country's winter wheat crop at 583,000,000 bushels, or 4,000,000 above the government's August 1 forecast, and the corn yield at 3,175,000,000, against 3,030,000,000 bushels estimated by the government a month ago. The government issued a warning to farmers today against a probable large exportable surplus if they carry out the announced plans for planting winter wheat.

September corn continued to act a bit tight and at the end of the first hour was ½c to ⅝c above yesterday's close. Some damage to corn by frost in the Northwest was privately reported, and with cool weather prevailing, all deliveries of corn had a somewhat firmer tone. Several houses professed friendship for the long side of corn futures on the breaks.

Wheat was about steady at noon, ranging ½c lower to ⅛c higher, while corn was ½ to 1⅜c up. September enjoying the extreme advance. Oats was unchanged, and provisions 5 to 7c down.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

Get Out Vote Movement Meeting With Success

Following close on the heels of the Chamber of Commerce drive to get out the vote in the election, November 6, comes a rush at the County Treasurer's office by voters anxious to qualify by paying the occupation tax. This is encouraging. It shows that the drive of our local civic bodies to get out a larger vote is bearing fruit.

In the presidential election of 1924 less than half of the eligible voters in Pennsylvania exercised their privileges to vote. It is the aim of Pittsburgh's civic leaders to see that Allegheny county will record two-thirds of our citizens as voting November 6.

Aside from the interest in the presidential campaign and the citizen's responsibility to his government to take part in the national election, we in Allegheny county have important local affairs to be settled at the polls.

In the foreground of local considerations is the vote on the amendment to the State Constitution to provide for a metropolitan plan for Allegheny county.

The Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies are doing their part to make our citizens vote-conscious. It is the least we citizens can do, as our part in this movement, to make ourselves eligible to vote.

The campaign for a more representative vote is a non-partisan one. Choose your own men and your own issues, advises the Chamber of Commerce, but choose by the ballot.

What Is Personality?

It Isn't a Smirk, a Smile, or Silk Covered Legs.

SOME "PERSONALITY GIRLS" FROM CALIFORNIA.

These charming young creatures, selected as a representative group of "Personality Girls" in California, will be sent traveling across the continent in honor of their victory. Chicago, New York and other cities will be glad to see them, regardless of the amount of personality that they really carry. Their smiles are pleasant, their faces easy to look at.

But do these faces REALLY represent PERSONALITY? And what IS personality?

You see it in Rodin's statue of "The Thinker." That thinker, with his chin on his palm, while he has personality, isn't smiling or laughing, and he doesn't wear silk stockings.

You see personality in the faces of the three wonderful Bronte sisters. But you don't see six rows of gleaming teeth, or a smile that cannot come off. You see earnest faces that THINK.

There is personality in Ida Tarbell's face, because she also THINKS, although she may not think today exactly as she thought in her early youth.

There is personality in the face of Calvin Coolidge. He couldn't smile like one of these girls even if you offered him the biggest trout of lake or stream.

Smile by all means, young ladies, be as cheerful as you can, and be as beautiful as you can. Beauty is DUTY.

But remember that personality goes deeper than pink cheeks, silk stockings, shiny teeth or broad smile.

Personality is formed inside of the skull, and it is formed by THOUGHT. Waving your hands, laughing merrily, smiling all day long, kicking up your little heels, will not produce personality, or take the place of real thinking, which develops personality and character.

Horrors, Horrors, More Horrors

A Vestless Prince.

The Prince of Wales appeared in a gray flannel suit without a waistcoat. It is hard for this nation to realize what that means to the tailors of England. For the vulgar herd to follow the American example of no coat or waistcoat is bearable, but royalty should be above it—never mind if it is hot.

That's how the British tailors feel. If men do away with the waistcoat, the next thing the coat will go, and you will have a shirt-waist humanity.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.
5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.

HIS LIST IS GROWING!

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Flotation

"I once read about some gas supposed to be surrounding a certain star, which gas was so powerful that an amount sufficient to fill a toy balloon would support an elephant. Is this true, and is there any more buoyant gas in existence than helium?—W. B., Chicago."

WHEREVER you may have read that statement, you have misunderstood its intent. Evidently it did not mean that the "power" of this extraordinary gas was to be measured by enclosing it in a balloon and noting the force with which the balloon would be lifted, but by using it as an atmosphere so that its pressure would be exerted upon a balloon inclosed in it, just as the pressure of the earth's actual atmosphere is exerted in similar circumstances. To make this clear it will be well to consider what "buoyancy" means, and what its limits are in the case of the only atmosphere with which we are acquainted. The utmost lifting force that any gas can exert is attained when the body immersed in it has no weight; i. e., no density. Then the force with which the body is lifted is the same as the weight of a volume of air equal to the volume of the body.

Suppose that the toy balloon spoken of had a volume of one cubic foot but was entirely without weight. Then, if immersed in the earth's atmosphere, it would be driven to the top of the atmosphere with a force which, at every point of its rise, would be equal to the weight of a cubic foot of air at that height. The force would vary because the density of the air decreases as the elevation increases. But this force, or buoyancy, could never exceed the weight of a cubic foot of air at any level, and this amounts to about 0.08 of a pound.

But everything has some weight, so that in estimating the lifting force the weight of the balloon must be subtracted from the weight of a volume of air equal to the volume of the balloon.

Now, if the atmosphere were composed of a gas thousands of times more dense than our air, its lifting force upon the same balloon would be increased thousands of times, and one may imagine an atmosphere so dense that elephants would float in it as easily as whales float in the sea. The density of water is about 800 times as great as that of air, and, as you may know, it is not far from being the same as the mean density of the human body, from which results the fact that the upward pressure of water on a swimmer is nearly equal to the downward pressure of his weight, and, if he manages skilfully, he can float on his back with his nostrils out of water. Sea water, being a little denser because of the dissolved salt, keeps him afloat more easily, while in the Great Salt Lake he cannot sink.

No, helium gas is not the most buoyant known. It is about four times denser than pure hydrogen, which exceeds all other known gases in lightness, and consequently would be unrivalled for use in balloons but for the fact that it is inflammable to a perilous degree, while helium is free from that danger. A cubic foot of hydrogen weighs about 0.066 of a pound; a cubic foot of air 0.08 of a pound. The difference, 0.074 of a pound, is the lifting capacity, per cubic foot, of a balloon filled with hydrogen. But from this must be subtracted the weight of the balloon and its freight.

Learn From Your Enemies

IT is a good thing to associate at times with those whom you consider cranky or opinionated—those who disagree with you.

If you are fair to them and to yourself, you can learn a lot of useful facts and get plenty of food for thought.

If nothing more, you might learn what not to do or say.

Such persons will be honest in expressing themselves.

You are likely to learn more about yourself from the one who does not care whether you are pleased or not.

One of our most serious mistakes is to court the society of those who please us.

It is so hard to listen to unpleasant things.

Nearly always during a quarrel one hears and learns facts of great personal value.

The great point is to think them over in a calmer mood and profit by the criticisms.

Don't choose your friends altogether from those who flatter you.

The ones who are truthful will be of real benefit to you—they will tell you things you ought to know.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Happiness

LONG, long for happiness he sought
And far afield he went;
At many a lying clue he caught,
Disdainful of content.
But happiness has willful ways,
(A vine that's hard to train).
Though far and far the seeker strays
Sometimes, turned home again,
He finds it winds down ways well known
And marvels much to see
Its strongest, fairest tendrils grown
Along his own roof-tree!

Traffic Code

NO one would expect the cities through which passenger trains run to require different signal lights or other safety regulations. It is time to develop uniformity for the motor car, also.

This has been done in a few states. It is found, for instance, in Massachusetts. But the tourist who crosses the continent yet encounters almost as many varieties of signaling and local rules of the road as there are communities. The most careful and conscientious driver in the world would of necessity become a lawbreaker simply because he could not know all these variations in advance.

There are no reasons against standardization except inertia or the occasional desire of cantankerous communities to be different. The National Safety Conference is doing a useful service in studying plans for uniform traffic control and in organizing a sentiment which will support the best code when it is found.

Great Passages from the Bible

David's Prayer For Forgiveness

(Psalms 51)

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, according to thy lovingkindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions.

Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.

For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me.

Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight: that thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, and be clear when thou judgest.

Behold, I was shapen in iniquity; and in sin did my mother conceive me.

Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts: and in the hidden part thou shalt make me to know wisdom.

Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Make me to hear joy and gladness; that the bones which thou hast broken may rejoice.

Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities.

Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me.

Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy holy spirit from me.

Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit.

Then will I teach transgressors thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

Deliver me from bloodguiltiness, O God, thou God of my salvation: and my tongue shall sing aloud of thy righteousness.

O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise.

For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering.

The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

Do good in thy good pleasure unto Zion: build thou the walls of Jerusalem.

Then shalt thou be pleased with the sacrifices of righteousness, with burnt offering and whole burnt offering: then shall they offer bullocks upon thine altar.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

COURSE I don't believe all I hear about Hollywood, and it might have happened in Babylon just as well. But anyhow, the way they tell it is that it happened in Hollywood. A movie star come running over to another movie star's house in his pajamas early one morning, and says, "Say, Frank, it's awful! My wife has run off with my chauffeur!"

"Well," says Frank, "don't get so excited about it. Come in and let me shake you up a little drink. What if it's true, even, and maybe it ain't? Why, that ain't so bad. Your wife run off with the chauffeur? Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'm going to Japan for the fall season, and you can have my chauffeur till November. You ought to be able to make out by that time."

A Matter of Months

"YOU sold my wife some eggs yesterday," said the angry man to the village grocer.

"Yes," answered Mr. Peavey, genially. "I believe I did."

"And you told her they were fresh?"

"Yes, I did."

"But you had no business to say they were fresh eggs."

"Why not? I bought them fresh from Sam Wiley."

"I don't believe it. Sam Wiley's an honest man."

"Well, Sam said they were all right. He came in here with his basket full of them, and put them down on the counter and exchanged them for groceries."

"When was that?"

"About three months ago, I suppose."

In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—Los Angeles leads the world in sundry stunt cafes and trick eating places. They are built in every fantastical and baroque shape imaginable. Some serve excellent food and others are the sort requiring plentiful bicarbonate in the first aid kit.

One of the popular places is actually known as Ptomaine Tommy's. Far out on Wilshire boulevard there is a two-mile stretch of chicken dinner places—prices ranging from 75 cents to $1.50—and served on paper plates. And, of course, Los Angeles is the cafeteria capital of the world.

There are eating hutches fashioned like oil cans. Eskimo igloos, cliff dwellers' caves to which you mount on ladders, jails where you sit in cells to be served by waiters in stripes, bull pens with matador waiters and immense dolls with tables inside their flaring skirts.

Near Pasadena is a giant replica of the old shoe in which the Old Lady lived, and one would imagine the menu includes filet of sole and shoe string potatoes. Burbank has a cluster of mushrooms spring up over night with eating places underneath. They are white and glisten in the sun like Turkish mosques.

Across from the Ambassador is the Brown Derby, specializing in steaks. It is as much of a democratic institution as Al Smith's Benny. On Ventura boulevard are cafes done in jungle style. Walls and roof are of tropical straw. The cooking is plain Zulu—served we imagine "hut." Ouch!

Scattered over town are numerous ice cream freezers and cones. The handles of the freezers revolve with a steady rythm. Icebergs of papier mache lift their cool pinnacles along hot highways. Then there is a light-house whose beacon—or perhaps bacon—attracts the hungry.

Some of the names are amusing. One bears the appetizing appellation of the Fly Inn. Then there are the White Spot, the Monkey Den, the Hamtree, Mammy's Shack, the Quick and Dirty, Hamburger Hank's, Take-a-Chance and a few others with names certainly not calculated to whoop up the appetite.

Drug stores, cafes and hair dressing parlors give away chances on automobiles. Indeed you get a chance on an auto for practically each purchase, save false teeth. You even take a chance on automobiles every time you skip the gutter.

And trick motor horns here rival the cafes. They squeak, screech, play like calliopes, ring like bells, tweet like birds, roar like lions and a few resemble a magnified eructation, which is the doctor's term for the social error of belching.

* * *

One of the joys the rising generation here misses is hopping on the tail end of an ice wagon. And personally I could never run a temperature over a Christmas without a little snow.

* * *

Mid-summer days are like early May in New York. The nights are cold enough for heavy cover. Street peddlers hawk a blanket made of virgin wool known hereabouts as "slumber throws."

There is a truck parked in front of most of the big hospitals, loaded with rather weary looking flowers for sale. Visitors buy an armload on their way in for a quarter. Flowers are as cheap as taxis in Paris. Today I purchased a dozen of the most beautiful dahlias ever beheld for $1.50. It is an ace spot for romantic young men who are girling.

Today we motored to Riverside, that picturesque town of temple bells and mission architecture. The community produces a sort of pleasant melancholy like the sad sweet notes of a muted violin. There is an inclination to converse in whispers and walk as though treading on holy ground. It is world famous for its Mission Inn.

Personality and the Labor Union

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

There is no doubt that labor unions on the whole are successful.

Of course they make mistakes, as they are composed of human beings, but no one who has followed the labor movement can doubt that the condition of laboring men is better because of them.

There is no reason in the world why men should not work together to secure better labor conditions and a higher wage. If this work is in the open and is carried on without violence, no sane man would object to it.

Concentration is the order of the day. Its advantages are multifold and are too manifest to be doubted. The rise of the trusts and combinations in capital show that business can be carried on much better in a big way than in a little way. In the end the consumer is benefited, for he gets his goods cheaper and better.

But there is danger in a capitalistic organization when it is against labor, and in a labor organization when it is against capital.

Class consciousness is harmful when it is injected into an economic dispute. Domination by any class, whether of capitalists or laborers, would be unfortunate.

The Central Conference of American Rabbis recently adopted resolutions on the labor problem which are sound.

"The solution of the ills which beset our social order," the conference declared, "is to be found not in any class-conscious struggle, but in the triumph of sound humanitarian principles which regard mankind as one. No materialistic philosophy can solve these problems. The mechanization of our present age and the building of large industries employing thousands of workers have led to the custom of regarding labor as a mass in which the personality is lost. We cannot sanction this practice, which tends more and more to treat labor only as an instrument. Machinery and industry exist for men, and not men for them."

Fortunately in America class consciousness is not so prevalent. The doors between the classes are too open for any class to remain fixed. Laborers can too often become capitalists in this country and capitalists laborers, for communism and socialism to take root deeply in this soil.

Here every man justly regards himself as every other man's equal, and the laborer should be careful not to commit himself to any program that submerges his personality. He is a man and stands equal before the law to any other man, no matter what his possessions.

This democracy cannot endure unless it is founded upon men, men with equal rights and citizenship, and not founded upon any class.

Flowers and Thistles

YOU will find my text today in the gospel according to Abraham Lincoln:

"I have always plucked a thistle and planted a flower when I thought a flower would grow."

Now, mind you, Lincoln set that down, not as a New Year's resolution but as autobiography. He actually plucked and planted as per the text.

And his annals are as replete with corroborative data as a bee tree with honey.

For a brevity recall the one-sided political feud with the old bushwhacking preacher, Peter Cartwright, who fired the musket of hot speech at Lincoln from a frequent ambush. That was a thistle.

Came a day when Cartwright's grandson was indicted for murder and Lincoln defended and freed him. That was a flower.

And the consequent gratitude of Cartwright proved that the thistle had been plucked and the flower planted in his heart.

There is enough of such unfinished business lying around to keep the army of the unemployed hustling three shifts daily with overtime and no vacation.

Watch the managerial genius for a month. His activities include plenty of the pluck-and-plant process. Hence he gets morale and leaves his competitors bodsledding in the rear.

Ask the maternal Froebel in the home and you will find her an adept at shifting gears from pouts to giggles.

Lincoln majored in a great curriculum at the knees of Nancy Hanks.
